Vietnamese District HQ Is Attacked

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong mortarmen carried the attack on the Vietnamese district headquarters at Loc Ninh into the fourth day today but left the National Day parade in Saigon alone.

The 200-round barrage fired at one of the American battalions defending Loc Ninh wounded only one man. A total of 365 Communists have been reported killed in attempts this week to overrun the town 72 miles north of Saigon, apparently for a propaganda victory to take some bloom off the inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Allied casualties at Loc Ninh so far were reported to be seven Americans and 18 South Vietnamese killed, and 21 Americans and 64 South Vietnamese wounded. B52 bombers dropped 300,000 pounds of explosives today on suspected Communist camps and supply areas.

Ground fighting was generally light across the country, but troops of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division reported killing 22 Viet Cong in a fierce eight-hour fight Tuesday only 19 miles north of Saigon. Six Americans were reported killed and 11 wounded.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey meanwhile inspected the demilitarized zone from a C118 transport that lumbered over the U.S. Marines' war-scarred battlefront at an altitude of 1,500 feet. Hours before Humphrey's plane droned over the DMZ, Marine fighter-bombers attacked a suspected surface-to-air missile site just north of the zone, but Humphrey's plane was 1,500 feet below effective SAM range.

Humphrey also visited U.S. units at Da Nang and Chu Lai. The U.S. Command disclosed that 30 to 40 Viet Cong attacked an Army helicopter compound at Chu Lai Tuesday night to plant explosive charges, but the command said the attack apparently had no connection with the vice president's visit. Ten Americans were reported wounded and damage to aircraft and equipment was reported light. There was no report of enemy casualties.

U.S. Marine jets also attacked North Vietnamese artillery positions in and above the DMZ and ranged up to Hanoi to plaster the Canal des Rapides highway bridge five miles northeast of the Communist capital's center. It was the eighth straight day of U.S. air raids on Hanoi.

Hanoi Radio claimed U.S. air attacks on the capital in the "past few days" have killed or wounded more than 200 civilians and burned or destroyed more than 150 houses.

Although the Viet Cong fired four mortar shells into the grounds of the government palace in Saigon Tuesday night during an inaugural reception given by President Thieu, the regime's mammoth National Day parade through the heart of Saigon today went off without a hitch. Last year the Viet Cong shelled the parade from outside the city, killed eight persons and wounded 45.

The parade today, which concluded the inauguration program, showed off airborne, artillery and mobile units, new weapons and two companies of uniformed armed forces girls who marched jauntily past the reviewing stand on high heels.

Shortly before Humphrey left for Malaysia, retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, an outspoken critic of the Johnson administration's policy, arrived in Saigon for a five-day fact-finding visit.

Monsoon weather confined most of the U.S. air attacks against North Vietnam Tuesday to the southern part of the country.

Israel is Ready For Peace Talks

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Levi Eshkol declared today he was ready to invite King Hussein of Jordan to come to Jerusalem for peace talks.

"I am ready to go to Amman myself for the same purpose if necessary," he told a British delegation of the Joint Palestine Appeal, here for celebrations marking the 50th anniversary of the Balfour Declaration.

Vice President Ends Viet Visit

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey arrived in the Malaysian capital from Saigon today as hundreds of steel-helmeted riot police guarded against a repetition of the violence that broke out during President Johnson's visit last October.

Humphrey's effigy was hanged in Penang, a hotbed of leftist activity 180 miles to the north, a few hours before he arrived in a big U.S. Air Force jet.

Some 200 youths massed in downtown Kuala Lumpur Tuesday night but scattered when riot police arrived.

Half an hour before Humphrey's arrival 100 young members of the left-wing opposition Labor party paraded along a main street with "Humphrey Get Out" banners but dropped their signs and walked away when a light drizzle started.

The Labor party has charged that Humphrey will try to involve Malaysia in the Vietnam war. However, Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman gave assurance Tuesday that the government would not send troops to Vietnam although it would continue to train South Vietnamese police officers.

Humphrey's arrival was accompanied by little fanfare. An elaborate ceremony including the traditional reviewing of a guard of honor was canceled after it was learned he would arrive after dark.

The deputy prime minister, Tun Abdul Razak, greeted Humphrey because Prime Minister Rahman has a badly sprained ankle.

On his final day in South Vietnam, the U.S. vice president flew a quarter of a mile high—between the range of Communist machine guns and missiles—to survey the U.S. Marines' battleground along the demilitarized zone. From his lumbering transport plane, he saw U.S. artillery hammering Red positions.

As the vice president's slow-flying C118 droned over the scarred terrain where 10,000 Marines have been wounded or killed this year, Humphrey said: "I saw the firing of cannons, and I could see a destroyer offshore."

Marine F4 Phantom and A6 Intruder jets flew cover above the transport while it traveled at 1,500 feet, out of range of machine guns and automatic weapons and below the 3,000-foot level at which planes become vulnerable to Communist missiles that may be positioned just north of the zone. U.S. headquarters reported today that a squadron of Phantoms attacked a suspected missile site just north of the DMZ Tuesday.

Humphrey, dressed in light blue slacks and a sports shirt, suggested landing at Dong Ha, the Marine base 17 miles south of the DMZ, so he could "take a little helicopter ride north."

"You're kidding, sir," one of the Secret Service men replied. The Marines had made elaborate preparations in case the vice president's plane went down. Four H3 helicopters, two helicopter gunships and an infantry force were on the alert at Dong Ha.

Humphrey ended his visit to South Vietnam for the inauguration of President Nguyen Van Thieu with a visit to the Marines at Da Nang before flying to the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lumpur.

He told the Marines Americans must be "patient with ourselves and patient with our allies."

In a broadcast earlier from Saigon, Humphrey told U.S. personnel in Vietnam not to be "distracted by the so-called voices of dissent" at home. "By and large," he said, Americans support their government's actions in Vietnam.

American sources said Humphrey was highly pleased with his talks with President Thieu and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

Minimum Halloween Vandalism

Destruction of property in Sedalia apparently was held at a minimum Halloween night according to police reports during the night. However, outlying towns reported nothing more than the usual gatherings of young people with little vandalism according to the Sheriff's department.

In Sedalia the evening of activity started off with the usual trick or treat visitors in the residential area with the following calls being made early: Eggs being thrown in the 900 block on South Ohio; subjects throwing toilet paper in the 1400 block on South Warren and various residents getting the tissue decorations from Fourth street south; subjects in a green 1958 Chevrolet driving in a careless and imprudent manner with lights out in the DeJarnette addition.

A call to the 600 block on East Ninth was in effect some boys had taken a trick or treat bag from a small girl containing her red plastic rain coat and red cap.

Boys sprayed a 1949 Plymouth from front to rear with vulgar and indecent writings on the sides, parked at 815 South Vermont. A description of the boys and car which were near the scene was obtained. The report was made by Lyle Wells.

A report some boys had taken a sack of trick or treats from a boy in his yard in the 2200 block First Street Terrace was received. A description of the boys and the car they were driving was given police.

Lawn chair reported stolen from 2245 East Broadway; 16th and Stewart report paper being thrown from a car; a speed limit sign was thrown in the yard at 423 West Sixth street; toilet paper being thrown from a car at Second and Quincy; boys throwing rocks at a street light at 12th and Merriam Street; Someone tossing cherry bombs in the vicinity of 720 South Beacon; firecrackers were reported being exploded in the 700 block on South Barrett.

Sedalia police also received a report at 6:39 a.m. Wednesday from W.S. Blair, 401 East Saline, that the screen door to his chicken house was kicked in sometime Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

In Green Ridge a 12 o'clock curfew was enforced and young people were told to go to their

A Court Test For New Law

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) —Constitutionality of Missouri's new toll turnpike law has been challenged in Cole County Circuit Court.

Robert L. Hyder, counsel for both the turnpike authority and the Missouri Highway Commission, said efforts would be made to transfer the case directly to the Missouri Supreme Court for an early decision.

If the law is upheld he said that might make it possible to start work on some turnpikes by next March or April. A toll road south from Kansas City to Arkansas has top priority in the feasibility studies being conducted by outside consultants.

The friendly test case was filed by two contractors in behalf of all motor fuel taxpayers. They are Joseph L. Pohl, contractor, Inc. of Nevada, Mo., and Menefee Construction Co. Inc. of Sedalia, Mo.

E. W. Menefee, Menefee Construction Co. president, told the Democrat-Capital Wednesday morning his company actually favored the turnpike law, but he felt several of the items that came under questioning during legislative discussion prior to the bill's passage should be cleared up before anyone became financially involved.

"I feel it is better to clear up these questions now, rather than have someone else challenge the law, after the taxpayers and construction people have several million dollars tied up in the project, and find it unconstitutional," he said.

It challenges all aspects of the law, including the use of state highway funds to lease the turnpikes and maintain them—the issue that caused prolonged legislative debate.

The turnpike authority consists of the six highway commission members plus Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, who strongly advocated passage of the bill. The suit questions whether two such state agencies can contract with each other.

It also raises questions about the legality of entering into contracts with private businesses, such as filling stations, restaurants and garages, use of highway department technical assistance and the validity of the bill's title.

Hyder said the suit is broad enough to answer any legal questions raised by prospective buyers of the revenue bonds that would be issued to build the turnpikes.

Rate Cut By Bell System

Missouri customers of Southwestern Bell will share with other Bell System customers in a $100 million reduction in long distance rates. The reductions apply to calls to points outside Missouri.

The new interstate rates were filed with the Federal Communications Commission by the Bell System last month and went into effect Nov. 1.

Telephone users will benefit three ways under the new rates:

— Lower charges on many calls. For example, under the present rate a 3-minute station-to-station call between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday from Sedalia to Los Angeles, Calif., costs $1.20. Under the new rate, the same call placed between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. Monday through Friday will cost $1.10. A 3-minute station-to-station call placed on Saturday under the new rate will be 85 cents.

— Longer time periods and added days (Saturday and certain holidays) when low rates apply.

— A new "midnight to 7" special dial rate with a 75-cent maximum charge within the continental United States.

The total package features major reductions but has small increases for some interstate calls under 24 miles. Overall, it provides a savings to customers of $100 million.

To Discuss Councilman's Resignation

The pending resignation of City Councilman Jerry Jones, Third Ward Republican, will be discussed at a business meeting of the City Council Wednesday night.

Jones' pending resignation stems from his moving from the Third Ward to the Fourth Ward. Under Missouri law, councilmen cannot serve one ward while living in another. Also, City Council members must reside in the ward from which they are elected for six months prior to being elected.

Mayor Ralph Walker said Wednesday that he had not given any thought to a successor for Jones as yet, but that he would most likely appoint a new councilman for the third ward before next month's City Council meeting.

Jones said Wednesday he will officially tender his resignation at next Monday's council meeting.

Freak Mishap Kills a Boy

WINGATE, N.C. (AP)—A 14-year-old Wingate boy, making a trick-or-treat excursion Tuesday night, was killed when about 60 cherry bombs he was carrying exploded.

The youth, Robert McManus, was dead on arrival at a hospital in nearby Monroe. A physician said the boy's left arm was fractured and his body badly burned by the explosion of the powerful firecrackers.

A companion, who was burned about the face, told officers he and McManus were together when "It blew up all at one time; I don't know what happened."

Reveal a Motive In Poison Cases

Consider Charging Parents

ARCADIA, Fla. (AP) — DeSoto County Sheriff Frank Cline said today a motive—a father's anticipated collection of life insurance benefits—had been established in the insecticide poisoning deaths a week ago of seven children.

Cline told a news conference he would fly to Jacksonville to investigate the previous deaths of five other children of James Richardson, a citrus picker held here on a child neglect charge.

Cline said he had information that five of Richardson's children, aged 5 months to 7 years, died in Jacksonville "over the past few years."

The sheriff said he would leave Arcadia immediately after a coroner's inquest Thursday.

"The motive was remuneration for life insurance, the cause of death was eating something which contained parathion which was in the pots of food which the children licked clean at noontime the day they died," Cline said.

Cline said he had no immediate word whether cause of death of the children in Jacksonville was accidental. The sheriff said the children were Richardson's by a previous marriage.

Richardson, 32, was originally booked into county jail Tuesday night on a charge of first-degree murder but later warrants were issued charging him and his wife, Annie Mae, 29, with child neglect.

DeSoto County Judge Gordon Hays, present at the news conference, said both he and Sheriff Cline felt there was "enough evidence to file murder charges." But he said State Atty. Frank Shaub of Bradenton and Asst. State Atty. John Treadwell of Arcadia did not concur.

"This is why I am summoning a coroner's inquest. . . to substantiate evidence already on hand," Hays said.

Richardson and his wife voluntarily took lie detector tests Tuesday.

"The polygraph tests showed Richardson had guilty knowledge of the poisoning of the seven children," Hays said.

The judge also said Richardson's wife was held although the test indicated she had no knowledge of any conspiracy to harm the children.

Results of polygraph tests are not admissible as evidence in Florida courts.

The judge also said laboratory tests showed the children received the parathion in their food. Hays said tests showed traces of the poison of utensils found in the Richardson kitchen.

Six children died Wednesday and the seventh perished the next morning.

Record Boom Drives Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economic expansion moved today into its 81st month—longest in history if it lasts through November—and the government's top economist says chances of keeping it alive indefinitely are "greatly improved."

But his optimism, added Chairman Gardner Ackley of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, hinges in large part on the future of President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Ackley said the nation now has the knowledge and tools "which greatly improve our chances of sustaining a healthy expansion for an indefinite period."

But he warned that Americans must be willing to use such tools, and said at this time that means approval of President Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge and cuts in nonessential spending.

"We have learned well enough how to stimulate the economy when it is threatened by slack," Ackley said in a statement Tuesday. "We also must show that we have the self-discipline to apply necessary restraint when the economy is threatened by overheating."

As of Tuesday, the economy completed 80 months of expansion—matching the length of the boom that accompanied World War II.

The current boom began in February 1961, the month after the late President John F. Kennedy was inaugurated. But it hasn't coasted along without an occasional push. Three tax cuts coaxed it forward at critical periods and now the administration wants a tax increase, saying it's needed to stem inflation.

But the tax hike proposal apparently has little chance of winning approval in this session of Congress. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee has thus far refused even to take up the measure unless Johnson offers long-range spending cuts.

The current boom follows three recessions which followed the Korean War.

Its impact can be measured best by a 57 per cent increase since early 1961 in the gross national product—the value of all goods and services produced in the economy.

Power Failures In Area

A fallen tree near the Pittsburg-Corning plant and a burned out transformer in Lincoln caused power failures in the Fairgrounds area and in the Lincoln-Ionia communities several times Tuesday, according to Clinton Black, district manager of the Missouri Public Service Co.

The most seriously affected area was the Lincoln community which experienced power failures all day Tuesday, before power was fully restored at 1 a.m. Wednesday. Black said the failure which was caused by a burned-out transformer also knocked out the sub-station near Ionia causing a power failure there for an hour at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

In Sedalia the only area affected was the Fairgrounds and several houses near there when a dead tree fell on the lines near the Pittsburg-Corning plant Tuesday night. The power was quickly restored.

All three failures were handled by supervisory personnel of the Missouri Public Service Co., which has been struck by the I.B.E.W., local 814 of electrical workers. About 50 employees are involved in the strike.

Black said Wednesday that there have been "no complete negotiations. There has been some discussion but no real negotiations."

Black also commented Wednesday that "I have no information at all at the moment concerning the prospects for ending the strike."

Youths Net $1,100 For UNICEF

With the aid of some 200 young people representing 16 Catholic and Protestant church groups, the people of Sedalia contributed $1,100 toward world aid to children in the "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" canvass during the weekend.

"Once again you have shown that you have some concern for suffering humanity," Rev. Marvin Albright, chairman of the youth committee of the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers Association, stated to the people of the area after the totals were added up. The ministers group sponsored the activity here.

"On behalf of UNICEF and the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers Association, we would like to express our thanks to all who contributed to this cause and to those young people who helped in the canvass," Rev. Albright said.

UNICEF is a Nobel Peace Prize winning organization dedicated to providing a better life for more of the world's children. Its underlying aim is to help people help themselves. There were 115 countries receiving assistance last year.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My wife is 22, in excellent health and is expecting our first child in about six months. Everything was fine until her mother began to scare her to death with stories about labor. She told my wife that her own labor was so excruciating that she lost her voice for two days because she screamed so much. She also told her she had bitten her lips so hard that the cuts didn't heal for three weeks.

Last night my mother-in-law talked my wife into having a cesarean instead of a natural birth. My own mother says my mother-in-law is crazy and that she should stop filling my wife's head with rubbish. My wife says if she can escape the agonies of labor by having a cesarean, why not? I don't know what to say. — EXPECTANT FATHER

Dear Ex: A cesarean is a major operation and no obstretrician will perform it unless there is a medical reason. Merely to escape labor is not a medical reason.

Mother-in-law is a generation or two behind the times. Ask your wife's doctor to tell her about the help that will be available during labor. She needs reassurance, not horror stories.

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago, when I was 12, I wrote you a letter and asked how to be popular. I felt like the ugliest and dumbest person in the whole world. When I received your answer I was really mad at you. Your reply was so cornball that I wanted to write again and ask you to send me a nickel because I felt I had wasted the stamp.

Two weeks later I found your letter stuck in a book. (I thought I had thrown it out.) I read it again. You wrote, "The way to have a friend is to BE one. If you want to be interesting to others you must be INTERESTED in others — and show it." Suddenly I wasn't mad any more. It made sense. I decided to try it.

I forced myself to smile and speak to people I had ignored for years. I discovered a lot of nifty kids all over the place. I thought, "Gee, they have changed." But I came to realize that I was the one who had changed. Pretty soon I wasn't thinking about my ugliness and my dumbness any more. I was thinking about how neat it was to be friendly. After a while I didn't feel ugly or dumb anymore.

So now, I am writing to say "thank you" and to ask you to print my letter. If it worked for me it can work for others. When I get a few dollars ahead I am going to send you a nice gift to show my appreciation. You changed my life. — THE NEW ME

Dear New You: Your letter was a beautiful expression of appreciation and I am grateful. As for a gift — I never discourage giving because I know that giving does as much for the giver as for the receiver. So, if you want to do something nice for me, put a couple of dollars in an envelope and send it to your local Heart Fund.

Confidential to Too Much Me: A diet may solve part of the problem but don't expect miracles. Bone structure is sometimes a factor.

JFK As Youth TV Topic

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The mother of John F. Kennedy, an extraordinarily smart and youthful 76, reminisced about her famous son for an all too short half hour Tuesday night, recalling some of the great—but more of the small events over the years.

The fourth anniversary of what Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy calls simply "the tragedy" will be along soon, but no mention of that was made on the CBS program. Instead, Mrs. Kennedy, seated comfortably in the living room of the house in which her second son was born, talked easily and interestingly of Kennedy family life, reflected on the close relationship of her children and recalled some musing anecdotes.

She smiled when recalling a time when Joe Jr., the oldest son, visited Russia when he was 18 and returned to argue with his father about communism. Young Jack who admired his older brother, told his mother that Joe seemed to know more about the subject than his father did.

Even after John Kennedy had become president of the United States, he accepted maternal advice. Mrs. Kennedy said she had watched the president with Henry Cabot Lodge in a television appearance and reported back to her son that she thought Lodge's striped necktie looked "more chic" than her son's conservative solid color. He gave gayer neckties a try. On another occasion, she suggested that he would look better if he kept his hands out of his pockets.

The program did little with its selling. The Kennedy birthplace is a comfortable middle class white clapboard home in what host Harry Reasoner called "a nice street" in Brookline, Mass. It is being restored and will be classified as an historic site.

Did Mrs. Kennedy suddenly realize this son would be an important man?

"No," she replied. "It was gradual. I think the first time may have been when I saw him go into the White House to see Eisenhower who was getting ready to leave. I think he would have been surprised if he had known that after the tragedy he would have been so glorified."

Henry Fonda is an excellent actor and he slips into a western role as if it were a comfortable old bathrobe. So it was on NBC's "Stranger on the Run" Tuesday night, first of its two-hour film features made for television.

There was not much in the story line to separate it from most "B" grade westerns

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — When Mrs. Illivaun Miller's gasoline credit card became badly bent recently, a service station representing the company filled out a form asking a replacement and sent it to the home office.

The station noted on the form that the card had been "badley (sic) bent."

The new credit card arrived a few days later at Mrs. Miller's house. It was made out to "Badley Bent, 3221 Rio Grande Blvd NW, Albuquerque, N.M."

Election Issue Is Color

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Special Correspondent

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Gary's mayoral election, scheduled to be held next Tuesday, now centers largely on a single issue—the Democratic candidate, Richard Gordon Hatcher, is a Negro.

"The vote is polarized on that point," said the incumbent, Democratic Mayor A. Martin Katz.

"The issues being talked about are not the real issue," said Mrs. Phyllis Spencer, a Negro assistant city attorney. "It's a question of color."

Hatcher's Republican opponent is Joseph B. Radigan, a partner in his family's furniture business.

Tuesday Hatcher asked a federal court in Hammond, Ind., to postpone the election on the ground that registration frauds have been perpetrated. In his petition, he said more than 5,000 Negroes were purged from voter rolls, while 4,000 fictitious whites have been registered. He named as defendants John Krupa, the Lake County Democratic chairman, and other party organizations.

Ugly overtones pervade the atmosphere in Gary, a steel-producing community of 180,000, on the eve of the election.

In addition to the charges of registration-fraud, predictions of election day violence have been voiced. A highly placed city official who asked not to be identified said, "Some of the merchants downtown are scared of what may happen if Hatcher loses."

Hatcher, 34, is a soft-spoken lawyer.

He has been a deputy prosecutor in Lake County Criminal Court, a member of the Gary City Council, and then its president.

He sponsored an open housing law and a political observer in Gary said, "He was death on crime as a prosecutor and a councilman."

In the Democratic primary last spring, Mayor Katz sought the nomination for a second term. There was a third candidate, Bernard Konrady. Hatcher received 20,000 votes to 16,000 for Katz and 13,000 for Konrady.

Almost immediately, Krupa began opposing Hatcher.

He says he told Hatcher, "Some day we'll elect a Negro mayor of Gary but you are not the right man."

In a conversation with this reporter, Krupa said, "He's been wheeling and dealing with characters whose patriotism is questionable. He's a militant Negro who scares people."

Krupa has used the word, "subversives," to describe some of Hatcher's supporters. He does not identify them. He also claims Hatcher "advocates Black Power."

Hatcher attributes Krupa's opposition to him to the fact that, "I ran as an independent for the city council. I haven't joined the machine. I'm certain that's a big part of it."

As for the accusation of being an extremist, Hatcher said, "I've already said I deplore violence and I'm opposed to extremists on both the right and the left."

Radigan, the GOP candidate, is 46 and a native of Gary. He has not held elective office but he has served on numerous civic organizations during the last 15 years.

He said he does not believe racism is the predominant factor in the election.

"I would hope it is not," he said. "I hope we will get enough votes out of Midtown (the predominantly Negro section) to show that this is false."

The average price of a new house in the U.S. was $23,300 in May of this year.

See Need For War Debate

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic critics of President Johnson's Vietnam policy suggest the kind of war debate which has raged in the Senate be carried on in party councils as Democrats prepare for the 1968 White House campaign.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said Tuesday the process he envisions could lead to contests over foreign policy pronouncements in the Democratic platform—and perhaps over the presidential nomination itself.

"You have to anticipate ultimately that there may be a challenge to the President," McCarthy said.

McCarthy said in-party debate over Vietnam would be politically better for the Democrats than "to pretend a unity which is not genuine."

Should Johnson, as expected, seek a second full term in the White House, it would appear virtually impossible for any challenger to wrest the nomination from him.

McCarthy acknowledged that, but said the process of challenge could itself have some impact on administration policy.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Foreign Relations Committee said open discussion of war policy in the months before the Democratic national convention would be helpful to Johnson.

Fulbright said polls indicate a widespread public belief that the nation is not getting the full story on Vietnam, and pre-campaign Democratic discussion of the issue would help overcome that.

"It would be a very healthy thing for the country," Fulbright said.

"This debate should be within the Democratic Party," McCarthy said in an interview. "Republicans are not really confronting this."

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Walter Sinterman, an 82-year-old widower, refused to leave the porch of his burning house in suburban Parma until someone went back inside and rescued a picture of his wife.

Asst. Fire Chief John Kerschbaum dashed back into the house, got a 7-foot-3 oil portrait from the living room wall and he carried it out. It was painted in Germany in 1905, when Mrs. Sinterman was 19. She died six years ago.

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (AP) — Alvin, the tiny research submarine, has its mechanical arm back.

The three-man sub lost its six-foot long arm as it was being hoisted aboard its mother ship in heavy seas about 100 miles south of Martha's Vineyard.

The mother ship, Lulu, took Alvin back to the spot where the arm had been lost.

Alvin went down, set off a series of sound-producing pingers and turned on its sonar. On the third dive, the arm was found buried in sand 4,400 feet below the ocean's surface.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — A once common sight in the San Joaquin Valley — the mobile post office — has become a thing of history.

The vans had rolled between Stockton, Fresno and Bakersfield since 1950. Inside, clerks sorted the mail.

The vans are being replaced by air taxi mail service and sectional centers to serve the small offices.

Derailment Was Caused By a Boy

NORFORK, Ark. (AP)—Arkansas authorities said Tuesday a 7-year-old boy threw a switch that derailed a Missouri Pacific freight train Sunday. One crewman was killed in the crash.

Prosecutor Robert Dudley said the 7-year-old, with another boy of the same age looking on, broke the switch lock with a rock and then threw the switch. The Kansas City - to - Memphis freight, going by several hours later, was turned onto a siding where it hit some bunk cars. Twelve of the 59 cars on the freight derailed.

The fireman, Archie Copeland, 46, of Memphis, Tenn., was killed when he jumped from the freight. Two other crewmen were injured.

The prosecutor said the two boys had been returned to their parents. Arkansas law protects anyone under 12 years of age from prosecution, he said, and the federal government has a similar restriction.

Dudley said the state's laws were being studied for the possibility of some action in juvenile court.

A U.S. Public Health Service study counted 60 scuba diving deaths and 24 skin diving deaths in the U.S. in 1965.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS
AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

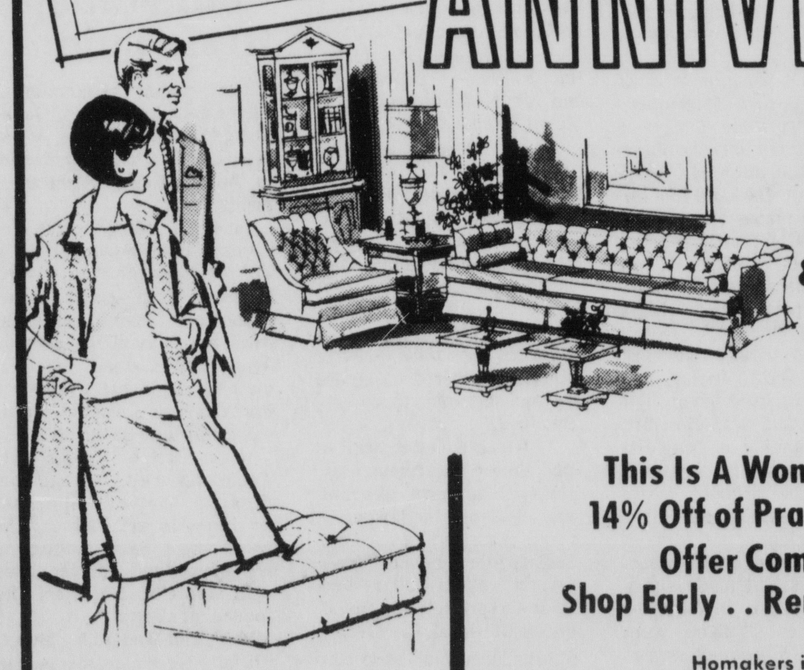

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special sizes for children and adults.

Collides With Train

The 1960 Ford stationwagon, pictured above, was damaged in a collision with a Missouri Pacific passenger train, Number 14, near Main and Missouri at 5:40 p.m. Tuesday. Driven north on Missouri by William Fisher, Route 5, the Ford was knocked eastward after colliding with the train and went into a spin, rolling back onto a parking area of the Don Simmons Conoco Service Station. Fisher and his wife, a passenger, were slightly injured, and were taken to Bothwell Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Capture Prison Escapee

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)—A convict who escaped last Monday from the Missouri State Penitentiary where he was serving a term for murder was caught here Tuesday night.

Merle Ray Winford, 31, who slipped out by posing as a guard offered no resistance when four detectives took him into custody. The officers had found him while acting on a tip that he might be in the area.

Winford told officers he had been planning his escape for three years, studying the procedure of guards and the movement of trucks. He said he had hidden stolen guards' clothing in various places.

Last Monday, he said, he gave his furniture factory foreman false information that he was wanted in another part of the prison.

Then, he said, he got into the hidden clothing, slipped out and drove out in a truck. He said he had made an ignition key and had tested it previously.

He said he abandoned the prison truck in Columbia, Mo., and hid in a wooded section nearby during the night. The next morning he caught a ride to Kansas City, Kan.

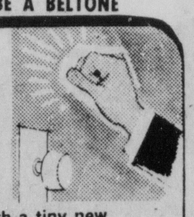

Winford was serving a sentence for second degree murder from St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher, Route 5, Sedalia, escaped with minor bruises in a train stationwagon accident at Missouri Avenue and the Missouri Pacific railroad crossing about 5:40 p.m. Tuesday. The stationwagon was demolished.

Fischer, 26, the driver, received a slight bruise on his forehead, while his wife, Joetta Gail Fischer, 17, received minor bruises. They were taken to Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance where Dr. D. K. Kirby examined them. They were released from the hospital.

According to Officer Charles Shepard, Fisher was headed north on Missouri in his 1960 Ford stationwagon, and the passenger train, Number 14, was eastbound. Fisher told the officer that he saw the flashing lights and when he tried to stop his brakes didn't hold and he skidded into the train. The vehicle struck the diesel engine about 12 feet from the front. The steel ladder on the side of the engine was bent in and scratches appeared on the metal side of the engine.

The stationwagon was knocked eastward and in its being knocked away from the engine went into a partial spin and rolled back onto the north parking area of the Don Simmons Conoco Service station. The vehicle came to a stop alongside Simmons' parked 1962 Thunderbird, the left rear of the stationwagon bumping against the parked vehicle doing some damage.

Engineer on the train was J. R. Salmons, Jefferson City; Conductor O. W. Owsley, of St. Louis, was in charge of the train. G. A. Ragland, Sedalia, was the fireman and brakeman Shackelford, St. Louis.

Accidents

A 1967 Mustang, owned by Lewis Jr. Hammond, 1811 West Fifth, was struck by an unknown vehicle at 12:01 p.m. Tuesday while parked in the 800 block of East 15th. Damage was to the left rear of the Mustang.

A two-car accident occurred at the intersection of Sixth and Vermont at 6:46 p.m. Tuesday.

Involved were a 1964 Dodge, driven south on Vermont by John P. Fisher, 17, 3016 East 12th, and a 1956 Ford, driven west on Sixth by Wraymond J. Merriott, 18, 1017 West Sixth.

Damage was to the right front of the Dodge and the right rear of the Ford.

The driver of a 1959 Buick sedan suffered injuries when the vehicle crashed into a traffic island at Broadway and Grand about 11:34 p.m. Tuesday. The automobile was reported demolished.

Dale Lee Downs, 22, 916 South Stewart, according to the police report, said he had swerved to miss a cat in the street and the car crashed into the west island. The front end and left front fender and side were damaged.

Downs was headed west on Broadway at the time of the accident.

He was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance where Dr. J. W. Maunders, rendered medical treatment for a deep laceration on the left side of the forehead, multiple cuts on the face, laceration on one hand and a broken nose.

Parks wrecker towed the vehicle from the scene.

No injuries were reported in an accident on U.S. Highway 50, just east of the city limits about 12:05 a.m. Wednesday.

According to the State Highway Patrol a 1964 Oldsmobile sedan driven by Howard R. Ehlers, 22, of Otterville and a 1963 Dodge sedan driven by Carl Statton, 68, Route 2, Sedalia, were headed east on Highway 50. The Patrol reported Statton started to make a left turn as Ehlers started to pass and the two vehicles sideswiped doing damage to the right side of Ehlers vehicle and the left side of Statton's.

Trooper Charles Pieper of the State Patrol made the investigation.

Donald Hopkins, 34, of Route 1, Hughesville, was injured about midnight Tuesday while working at De Long's Inc., when a portion of a window fell striking him on top of his head.

He was taken to the Bothwell Hospital where Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher rendered treatment for a laceration on the top of his head.

Fay H. Lair Jr., LaMonte was fined $250 in Magistrate Court Wednesday by Judge Frank Armstrong for disturbance of the peace. The charge stemmed from an incident last week at Broadway and Massachusetts when Lair allegedly pulled a gun on a Sedalia man.

Absentee Votes Are Decisive

LEBANON, Mo. (AP) — The count of 64 absentee votes will determine the outcome of Lebanon's $750,000 school issue which has been defeated three times.

In the fourth election Tuesday, the vote was 1,906 in favor and 979 against, short by 18 votes of the necessary two-third majority. Absentee votes will be counted tonight.

The money would be used for a new junior high school and additional grade school rooms.

City Hit By Two Strikes

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Cincinnati was hit with double trouble today.

The city of about 500,000 was without newspapers and city bus service.

A shutdown of the city's two daily newspapers started Monday with a strike by the photoengravers which spread to other unions.

Today 800 members of the Amalgamated Transit Union struck the Cincinnati Transit Co. in another contract dispute.

The transit strike, the first in 54 years here, caused massive traffic jams on a rainy morning as workers had to use private transportation to get to their jobs.

Many didn't even know about the strike because they had no newspapers and had missed radio broadcasts.

The newspaper strike, involving the morning and Sunday Cincinnati Enquirier and the evening Cincinnati Post & Times Star, affected about 1,300 persons directly.

The bus strike knocked out transportation of thousands of youngsters to public schoos, but Supt. Paul A. Miller said schools would be open.

There were some indications that court action might be taken to halt the transit strike.

Kay Brownfield Pledges at MU

Miss Kay Brownfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Brownfield, Route 2, Sweet Springs, has pledged the Epsilon Mu Chapter of Sigma Kappa Sorority at Missouri University, Columbia.

Sigma Kappa will initiate this first pledge class as charter members at the national convention in San Diego, Calif. next summer.

Student Outbreak At M.U.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A noisy farewell to a popular tavern erupted into a wild, window-smashing melee and an abortive panty raid at the edge of the University of Missouri campus Tuesday night.

City and campus police were joined by 35 to 40 sheriff's deputies and 23 highway patrolmen as approximately 1,200 students from several area colleges started throwing rocks, bottles, apples and oranges.

Tear gas was used to quell one group during the disturbance.

The tavern is just across the street from Jesse Hall, the university administration building Since 1931 it has been known to students, first as "Black and Gold Inn, Italian Village (I. V.)," and in 1966 it became "The Huddle."

The university owns the building and refused to renew the lease, which ran out Tuesday.

Witnesses said a crowd began gathering around 3:30 p.m. By 9 p.m. a two or three-block area around the tavern was jammed with students.

Shortly after nine, the crowd was reported ripping apart booths and breaking windows. Sheriff's officers, highway patrolmen, city and campus police then began dispersing the crowd.

A short time later, a group estimated at 400 strong started a panty raid on a complex of women's dormitories about five blocks from The Huddle. It was quickly broken up, resulting in the arrest of at least three persons. Officers said the three had not been charged but were being detained.

When a smaller crowd regroupéd around The Huddle and started throwing bottles, police moved in again, using tear gas.

By midnight, police said, most of the students had left the area.

There were numerous reports of injuries, mostly as the result of persons hit by flying bottles.

Steve Schuchmann, a 22-year-old senior at Missouri Valley College, Marshall, charged he was struck several times by police with billy clubs.

"A little policeman hit me," said Schuchmann, a 6 - foot - 4, 290-pound former football player from St. Louis.

Donn Loman, leader of a band performing at The Huddle, reported $300 damage to their equipment, including $250 damage to "psychedelic lights" they used.

GOURMET GUIDANCE may be done by computer soon. Among the equipment displayed during the Business Equipment Manufacturers Assn. show in New York recently were these two video data terminals linked to a computer which helps this young lady select a steak house from the more than 10,000 restaurants in New York City. After tapping out her dining preferences on a typewriter keyboard, the terminals provide her with a list of seven possibilities followed by a complete description of each, from prices to specialty-of-the-house.

Reuther Seems Ready To Leave AFL-CIO

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Reuther appears to be liquidating major financial interests in the AFL-CIO in preparation for pulling his 1.5 million-member United Auto Workers out of the labor federation, informed sources say.

The AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, Reuther's last remaining power base within the federation, is rapidly and deliberately spending itself out of money, it was reported.

Jack Conway, executive director of the Industrial Union Department, denied any such significance could be attached to the money problem, but confirmed that more than $1 million has been spent out of cash reserves in the past 10 months. This was more than half the department's total cash.

"It's nothing serious," said Conway, adding that much of the money had been spent supporting organizing drives among teachers, farm workers and Southern textile workers and in helping other unions.

But another labor source said: "It could mean that if Reuther pulls out of the AFL-CIO, he would leave the Industrial Union Department empty-handed."

Reuther has been attacking the leadership of AFL-CIO President George Meany for more than a year and making threatening gestures to secede from the big labor federation the two men founded 12 years ago.

The Auto Workers union has long been the major financial backer of the 60-union Industrial Union Department that embraces some 6 million of the AFL-CIO's total 14 million members.

Reuther quit as a vice president of the AFL-CIO nine months ago and resigned all other posts except the presidency of the Industrial Union Department.

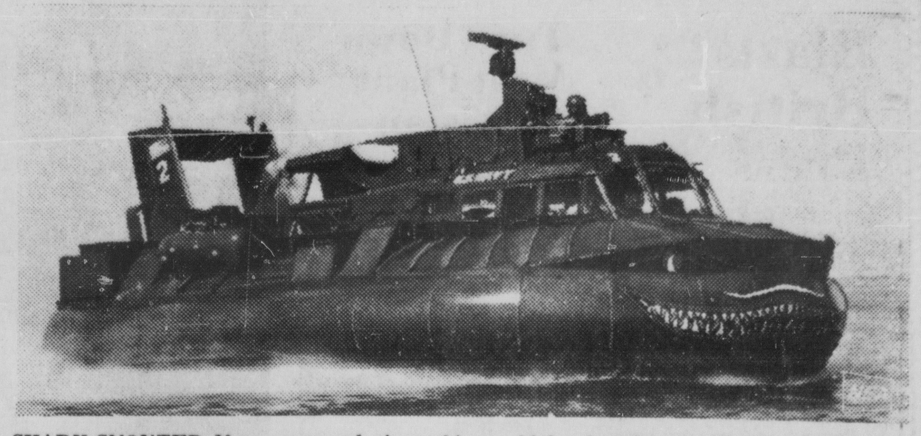

"It's not as if he were spending other people's money," said one source, adding that, in effect, the Industrial Union Department was getting rid of money largely contributed by the Auto Workers.

"And it's not being wasted," this source said, pointing out the money was being spent helping other unions and on community action programs aimed at solving big-city slum problems. These are two of the areas on which Reuther has severely criticized Meany for not being "dynamic" enough.

Conway, while denying the financial straits had anything to do with the Reuther-Meany dispute, said the Industrial Union Department's cash reserves had dwindled from "slightly over $2 million" to "somewhere around $1 million" in the past year.

Other sources said the department's net worth had plummeted from $2,313,761.58 on Dec. 30, 1966, to "in the neighborhood of $800,000" now, a drop of more than $1.5 million in 10 months.

The situation has nothing to do with the AFL-CIO's own separate cash position, which stood at about $5.7 million in the last annual report July 30. This was an increase of more than $500,000 during a year when the Industrial Union Department's reserves had already dropped by more than $600,000.

Baptist Post For Stainback

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The executive board of the Missouri Baptist Convention has elected Dr. Arthur H. Stainback, pastor of Bull St. Baptist Church in Savannah, Ga., as secretary of the convention's bond service effective Jan. 1.

He formerly was pastor of the First Baptist Church at Raytown, Mo.

He succeeds the Rev. Webster C. Brown of Jefferson City, who has been named program emphasis director.

'Cyclist Dies In an Accident

OZARK, Mo. (AP) — A motorcycle rider was killed and his passenger was injured when the cycle ran into a car that had stopped at an intersection.

Randy Cornelison, 16, was killed and Willis Baker, 15, was injured. Both are from Ozark.

The highway patrol said the driver of the car was Miss Janet Thomas, 16, of Rogersville.

Talks Her Way Out of a Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A young woman employe of Los Angeles County called home oftener than most, but nobody said anything until she telephoned a friend in Saigon.

Authorities said they discovered she ran up a telephone bill of $1,264 by calling home—to Jackson, Miss.—since June.

The young woman was fired, County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said Tuesday.

Record Remains On Film

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Authors bequeath books and bricklayers their handiwork, but screen actors are uniquely privileged: they leave themselves.

Immortalized on film and sound track, they remain after death as real and vibrant to their public as when they trod the movie stages. And death has no sting at the box office —except as a stimulant in rare instances where cult followings develop.

About 900 students paid their way into UCLA's Royce Hall a few evenings ago to applaud two movies a combined 38 years old, featuring six actors now dead.

The hip collegians laughed at a new camp touch in 1953's "Shane"—a mongrel slinking away to underscore a gunfighter's villainy. But they clearly relished two of the greatest fight sequences ever filmed and the heroics of Alan Ladd, clean-looking, deep-voiced and laconic in fringed buckskins as he drove the bad guys from the settlers' valley.

"Casablanca" has been on television countless times and like "Shane" seemed tiny in its old 3-by-4 format on the wide screen. But the students applauded Humphrey Bogart when he appeared, suave and cynical. The 1943 film also had suave Claude Rains, sinister Sydney Greenstreet, sly Peter Lorre and excitable S. Z. Sakall—all, like Bogie, now gone but seemingly as alive as ever.

A more spectacular example of deceased actors' immortality at the box office is "Gone With the Wind," which MGM is releasing for the sixth time after a take of $40 million on previous rounds. Now it's in wide-screen format and six-track sound.

Of its stars, only Olivia de Havilland is still alive. Clark Gable, Vivian Leigh and Leslie Howard are gone, but a studio spokesman says: "Their passing doesn't seem to have one whit of effect. It's bigger than anything we've had in years."

Studios generally avoid releasing a film too soon after the star's death for fear of seeming to commercialize. Spencer Tracy died last June, but "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner" won't be shown until December and Columbia won't advertise it as his last film.

Cult followings gave Rudolph Valentino and James Dean bigger popularity in death than in life. But stars' last pictures also can fail.

Examples: Jean Harlow's "Saratoga," completed with a double after she died; Gable's "The Misfits" and Montgomery Clift's "The Defector."

Seize Men In Robbery Of a Bank

LA PORTE, Ind. (AP) — Two men wanted in a suburban Chicago bank robbery in which two policemen were slain were seized Tuesday night at a lake cottage used by one of them as a hideout 11 years ago.

A posse of federal, state and county police officers, acting on a tip, went to the cabin and arrested Clifton O. Daniels, 29, Wilmington, Ill., and Henry M. Gargano, 35. Gargano was found in bed, seriously wounded and "too weak to move."

Two women in the cabin at Fox Lake 12 miles southeast of this northern Indiana city also were arrested. Police identified them as Mary F. Cook, 30, and Annette Gargano Leonardo, 29, both of Lemont, Ill.

Daniels and Gargano were charged in the $83,783 holdup Friday of a Northlake, Ill., bank. The FBI said most of the loot was recovered in the cottage.

A gun battle at the bank between police and the three masked robbers killed officers John J. Nagle Jr., 31, and Anthony P. Perri, 41. Two other policemen were wounded along with Ronald D. Raine, 35, one of the robbers who was charged with two counts of murder.

About 17 officers went to the lake cottage. Most summer cottages at the resort were vacant.

FBI agent Harold A. Berger of South Bend, who led the raid, said the cabin was owned by Gargano's grandfather and that Gargano "used it as a hideout in 1956 after a bank robbery in Francesville, Ind."

Berger said lights were seen inside. Using a bullhorn, he ordered the occupants to come out with their hands up. The two women came out first and related that Gargano was wounded.

Daniels backed out as instructed.

Senate Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate probers open public hearings today on Negro rioting and other civil disturbances with testimony about a Houston uprising last May in which one policeman was killed.

The probe by the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., was ordered by the Senate Aug. 11.

Since then the subcommittee has had teams of investigators gathering information in riot-hit cities throughout the nation.

The riot in Houston on May 16 and 17 broke out on the campus of Texas Southern University, the state's largest all-Negro college. Nearly 500 Negroes were arrested, some of them students at the university.

Testimony about the riot and its causes is expected to take two days or more. Next week the subcommittee plans to examine a riot last April in Nashville, Tenn.

Homecoming Queen at MU Is Picked

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Miss Geneva Sugarbaker, who is in Hawaii to visit her fiance who was wounded in Vietnam, was elected homecoming queen at the University of Missouri Tuesday night.

The wounded fiance is Bob Wilson, a former Missouri football player. He suffered shrapnel wounds in the back.

Miss Sugarbaker, 21, of Jefferson City, a senior, is a speech and dramatics major at the college of education. She is a 120-pound, 5-7, blue-eyed brunette.

Cecil Phillips, chairman of the queen selection committee, said he felt sure that Miss Sugarbaker would be back for the homecoming game Nov. 11 against Kansas State.

Chosen as attendants were Miss Lisa Valenti, 21, of Weatherby Lake in Platte County, and Miss Katie Blanton, 29, of Sikeston.

Blasts British Press

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — British Foreign Secretary George Brown was deep in controversy again today after telling the nation's biggest publisher "it is about time you shut up" and calling British newspapers "the most prostituted press in the world."

Brown turned on Lord Thomson of Fleet at a banquet the publisher gave for American executives Wednesday night, then later waded into a 10-minute row with newsmen covering the banquet.

Brown's outburst was apparently set off by a joke Thomson made introducing him. The foreign secretary put aside his prepared text to attack the Canadian-born publisher, apparently for a series of articles his London Sunday Times is running about Harold Philby, the former Foreign Office man who spied for the Soviet Union for 30 years until he defected to Moscow in 1963.

"You are doing—your papers are doing under your control—a very great disservice to this country and a very great disservice to the affairs which we ought to be controlling," Brown said.

"I am your guest but I must make this quite clear: I think you are overdoing it and I think it is about time you stopped.

"It is about time we stopped giving the Russians half a start on what we are doing. It is about time you shut up.

"If you don't want to be a Cyrus Eaton. . ." and here Brown went back to his prepared speech on "Britain in a Changing World." He made no further reference to Eaton, the American industrialist who has maintained close contacts with Kremlin leaders.

Thomson, who publishes a number of papers in the United States, took the attack with good humor.

He told his guests: "We don't always take George very seriously, and now you have a very good picture of the man who is foreign secretary of this great country, the Right Honorable George Brown."

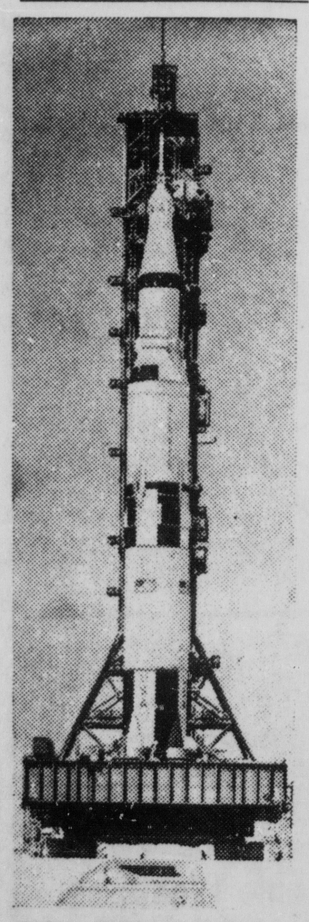

When newsmen approached Brown for confirmation that his attack on Thomson had been prompted by the Philby disclosures, a 10-minute scene followed, terminated by Brown's calling the newsmen "the most prostituted press in the world," a quote from the late Labor party leader Aneurin Bevan.

Turn Down Meat Plant Provision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has rejected a bid to turn federal inspectors loose in virtually every major U.S. meat processing plant.

The administration-backed proposal was defeated 140 to 98 Tuesday shortly before the House voted nearly unanimously for a bill aimed at strengthening nationwide meat inspection practices.

Rep. Neal Smith, D-Iowa, a sponsor of the defeated proposal, said he was optimistic about its future in the Senate. Smith, who wants many plants that sell their products entirely within a single state to measure up to the standards of those in interstate commerce, said several senators have indicated they'll back a tougher law.

As sent to the Senate on a 403 to 1 tally, the bill would set up a new program of federal-state cooperation in meat inspection programs. It also would bolster Agriculture Department authority to control processors.

Waste Of Tax Money

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Think small" is the message a House subcommittee is trying to get across to Defense Department buyers who acknowledge their attention wanders when the dollar volume drops.

With mounting dismay, the subcommittee heard Tuesday the details on a number of purchases in which the government paid far more than the going price for small lots of items needed by the military services.

"This is a sick day," said Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y. "It's a sick system," echoed Chairman Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va., of the Armed Services subcommittee exploring procurement practices.

One of the main troubles, readily admitted Defense Department witnesses, is that the people doing the buying in the "small purchase" units don't know what they're buying or what it should cost.

"We've gone from 91,000 transactions to 201,000 and from 500 people to 1,000 in the last five years," said a department official, "and I defy anyone to find that many people qualified in procurement."

He said another problem is that a department that spends $45 billion a year on procurement has a hard time adapting itself to the purchase of 64 couplings at $46.75 each.

"We've never spent much time pricing items in this area," agreed Col. Stanley Allen, director of procurement for the San Antonio Air Materiel Area. "It's a matter of emphasis and manpower."

But subcommittee members indicated they viewed it as a matter of wasting taxpayer money, noting that the couplings for which the government paid $46.75 each were listed in the company's catalog at $16.75.

"We had no knowledge there was a catalog available," said Col. Allen.

"What did you do to look for another source?" asked Pike.

"In essence," replied the colonel, "nothing."

Adorning the hearing room was a display board with examples of other purchases by the government: A plastic dial listing at $1.62 for which $275 was paid; a 50-cent shaft for which $25.55 was paid, and a $23 wrench for which $123 was paid.

"Sleeping Beauty"

Argentina's "sleeping beauty," 17-year-old Maria Elena Tello, continues in the coma from which she has awakened once in four years. The girl lapsed into the coma on Nov. 23, 1963, on hearing of the assassination of President Kennedy. She was recently flown to Buenos Aires from her home town of San Martin in San Juan Province for examination by medical specialists in the Argentine capital. Her mother said she opened her eyes briefly on Good Friday of 1964 and spoke a few words before falling back into the coma. (UPI)

THE NEWS in Brief

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Professor Joseph Wood of Brigham Young University has an unusual way of settling student grievances.

The history instructor challenges the dissenter to a tennis game. The winner also wins the argument.

Wood recently came out loser in a disagreement with freshman Roy Prescott of Jerome, Idaho who felt there were too many exams.

Prescott beat the sporty professor two out of three games so there will be fewer examinations in Wood's classes from now on.

DETROIT (AP) — Mrs. Janice K. Wilfong, 19, of Southgate, lost a close friend, Jack Lucas, when he died in a Florida auto accident eight months ago.

At the funeral in the Detroit suburb, she met one of Lucas' comrades in the Army, S. Sgt. Roger D. Wilfong of Cumberland, Md.

He comforted her about her loss. Soon their friendship blossomed into romance and they were married on May 19.

After a week's honeymoon, he left for Vietnam.

Wilfong died last week as the result of gunshot wounds on a mission for the 101st Airborne Division.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Lurleen Wallace of Alabama leaves a hospital today after nearly eight weeks of cobalt radiation therapy treatments.

Mrs. Wallace, 41, underwent cancer surgery at M.D. Anderson Hospital and tumor institute last July and shortly thereafter began the radiation treatments at the hospital as a precautionary measure against recurrence.

She received the treatments as an out patient and spent most of the weekends in Alabama although she suffered what doctors termed a normal side effect and was hospitalized briefly.

She is to return to Houston for medical examinations on an annual basis for the next several years, hospital officials said.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Dora Johnson was driving in Palm Springs when her car and a school bus from St. Theresa's parochial school collided Tuesday.

Four youngsters in the bus were injured slightly.

One was Mrs. Johnson's 10-year-old Leroy.

VITORIA, Spain, (AP) — Police have cracked down on two underground organizations, one Communist and the other separatist, in this Basque region, the semiofficial Cifra news agency reported Tuesday.

The agency said police detained 14 men, including members of the Spanish Communist party, and others belonging to the ETA, a Basque separatist organization.

WICHITA (AP) — "I started bawling like a big kid and told him I won't get into the car. If you're going to kill me, kill me here," Mrs. Mollie C. Black, a liquor store clerk, related Tuesday in describing how she dissuaded a bandit from kidnaping her.

The armed bandit robbed Mrs. Black, operator of a liquor store, of about $100 and two billfolds but relented from kidnaping her when she broke into tears.

She said he threatened to kill her a dozen times and told her to get in his car.

New Effort

CORK, Ireland (AP) — Ireland's arts council has decided to put up an unspecified amount of money needed to complete work on a monument to the 1,198 persons who lost their lives when a German submarine torpedoed the Lusitania in 1915. Work on the monument at Cobh in Cork Harbor was begun 34 years ago, but sponsors ran out of money.

Gavin Visit To Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, a critic of the Johnson administration's policy in Vietnam, arrived today on a visit and said he's "quite open minded" about the war.

Gavin said he was making the trip because he was invited by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam. Earlier Gavin said he wanted to see Vietnam "not as a former general but as a concerned citizen."

Now chairman of an industrial consulting firm, Gavin has been mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for president.

Some social historians predict that after the miniskirt, skirts may disappear altogether.

Trout Parks Have Record Attendance

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Missouri's four trout parks had a record attendance of 297,786 this year as the season ended Monday, the State Conservation Department reported today.

That compared with 270,540 last year.

In line with growing usage of the rainbow trout stocked streams, the department is building a new trout hatchery at Montauk State Park near Salem.

The fast growth of trout fishing is illustrated by the attendance figure of 102,465 10 years ago and only 40,437 in 1947.

Bennett Spring State Park near Lebanon, as usual, had the most anglers—110,172, same as last year.

Montauk had the biggest increase, from 62,670 last year to 79,819 this year.

Roaring River near Cassville had 56,037 compared with 52,861 in 1966 and Maramec special management area near St. James had 51,116 against 44,877 last year.

Churchill's Grandson Making Bid

By LOUIS NEVIN
Associated Press Writer

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — Winston Churchill, 27-year-old grandson of Britain's great warrior, is banking on the magic of his name and general discontent with the Labor government to win election to Parliament Thursday.

If he succeeds he will be the first Conservative legislator elected in the Gorton district of this sprawling capital of the industrial Midlands. The latest betting odds show him a 6-4 favorite to pull it off.

The special parliamentary election is to replace left-wing Laborite Konni Zilliacus who had held the Gorton seat since formation of the district in 1950. Zilliacus died in July.

Gorton is predominately working class and it is a discontented working class, angry with the Labor government's deflationary policies and the resulting unemployment.

Sandy-haired, freckle-faced Churchill has been exploiting the discontent for all it's worth.

Not that he has any illusion dyed-in-the-wool Laborites will vote for him—he's had too many doors slammed in his face while campaigning. He just hopes they will stay home on election day.

Tory party workers are concentrating on making sure the 16,000 registered Conservative voters get to the polls.

A novice at politics although born of a long line of parliamentarians at the center of the nation's political power—Chequers, country residence of British prime ministers—he has made many mistakes in his campaign. But party workers say he doesn't make them a second time, after they have been pointed out to him.

The first day, to the horror of party workers, he went out for door-to-door canvassing, he showed up in a snappy white Jaguar dressed in the latest from Savile Row. Ever since he rides around in a battered old sound truck plastered with "Vote for Churchill" posters.

So far in the campaign he has shown little of his grandfather's flair for a nicely turned phrase or his father's vitriolic verb.

He looks like a nice young man with a friendly interest in people.

Winston Spencer Churchill, was born Oct. 10, 1940, at the height of the Battle of Britain, the son of the wartime prime minister's only son, Randolph, and Pamela, only daughter of Lord Digby.

Young Winston and his wife, the former Minnie D'Erlanger, daughter of a prominent industrialist and banker, have rented a furnished house in Manchester for the campaign and moved in with their three children. She has gone out with him frequently campaigning door to door or to party rallies.

Churchill's four opponents are headed by Laborite Kenneth Marks, local high school principal who is the only local candidate. His matter-of-fact manner has lit no bonfires during the campaign but he is well-liked in Denton, a Manchester suburb in the Gorton district, where he lives.

Opening Parliament Session

The Queen, Prince Phillip (in uniform), and Prince Charles (left), heir to the throne, ride in the Irish State Coach from Buckingham Palace to the House of Lords where Her Majesty opened a new session of Parliament Tuesday. Prince Charles and his sister, Princess Anne, were taking part in the historic ceremony for the first time. (UPI)

SCOUT NEWS

Cub Scouts of Pack 67 held their monthly pack meeting at Horace Mann School Oct. 24.

In keeping with the months theme, "Westward Ho," the cub scouts, in Indian costume, opened the meeting with a torch light parade and an Indian war dance. Participants were Ricky Schaberg, Dennis Kerns, Steven Harvey, Timmy Herrick, Tim Swezy, Mark Swezy, Jimmy Tyroler, Tim Bryant, and Larry Clawson.

Den 1 led the flag ceremony with Ricky Schaberg and Dennis Kerns as flag bearers. Ricky Schaberg led the pledge of allegiance, and Jimmy Tyroler lighted the "Spirit of Cub Scouting" candle and read a thought about the meaning of the candle.

The Cub scouts presented an Indian skit around a teepee and campfire, followed by the lighting of the candles and an explanation of the meaning of the word, "Cubs."

Bobcat pins were presented to Tim Swezy, Mark Swezy, Ricky Schaberg, Steven Harvey, Jimmy Tyroler, Tim Bryant, and Larry Clawson.

Cubmaster Vernon Harvey closed with the cubmasters thought and refreshments of coffee and cookies were served.

Various Signs Show Middle Age Has Come

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Middle age is that period of life when—

The faces in your high school yearbook begin to look hauntingly unfamiliar—including your own.

You no longer open an envelope with the idea that it might possibly contain something for nothing.

It isn't as easy as it used to be to beat a nimble-footed old lady to an empty taxicab.

If you casually encounter someone you used to know, you tell him how well he looks and congratulate yourself secretly because you haven't aged so much as he.

You never buy anything without first inspecting its price tag in the hope that it has been reduced.

The mail brings more and more invitations to do things you don't want to do and to go places where you don't want to be.

You have pretty well figured out whom you would lend money to in an emergency—and how much.

Your hairline isn't receding so much as your forehead is getting nobler looking.

It is easier to wear something that doesn't quite fit you than it is to go through the bother of taking it back to the store and having it exchanged.

Anything that leaves you feeling too darned tired is hardly worth doing.

There are a lot more people who say "sir" to you than holler, "Hi!" You are slowly becoming accustomed to this difference in greeting.

The tougher the sport being played, the more you enjoy being an innocent spectator.

Although you sense a slight slowdown in your physical prowess, morally you are getting so much stronger that about half the time you can whip temptation with one arm tied behind you. Sin has acquired a resistible personality.

Every cocktail party you attend reminds you of at least three others you can remember at which you made a fool of yourself.

You have a wistful desire to gossip about other people less and help them more.

When you go to church, you find yourself nodding in agreement with the preacher before he has even reached the verb in the sentence he is saying. After all, you know there's a lot of truth in what he has in mind.

No longer do you retain youth's careless way of taking nature for granted. Each tree and bird and flower assumes its own individuality, and you are at least dimly thankful that each is there.

Yep, that's middle age. Middle age is what you make it—and what it makes of you.

H-S Senior Is Slain In Home

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) —A 17-year-old high school senior was found slain in the bathroom of her parents' fashionable southwest Oklahoma City home Tuesday.

Police theorized Maxine Ruth Cummings, a student at Southwestern College in Oklahoma City, was the victim of a sex killer. An autopsy was being performed to determine if she was raped.

The girl's father, Albert Cummings, returned to the family home about 3 p.m., and found his daughter's naked body, draped face down over the side of the bathtub three-fourths filled with water. Her hands and feet were bound with nylon hose and her throat had been cut from "ear to ear," officers said.

'Witnesses' In Annual Assembly

The Sedalia congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses cancelled all meetings over the weekend of Oct. 27-29 to attend their semi-annual circuit assembly. They met in Henrick's Hall at Warrensburg with congregations of the Witnesses from the Kansas City, Clinton and Sedalia area.

Saturday morning featured conventioners in Warrensburg and vicinity. At 1:30 p.m., District Director J. D. Wengert from the Watchtower Society's world headquarters in New Baptism."

Saturday evening's program gave delegates a review of the result of the past six months of their ministry. Seeking ways to "Walking Orderly by Spirit," as the assembly was themed, skits and demonstrations on how to perform their ministry were presented.

Highlight of the convention was the public address Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. given by District Director Wengert, on the subject "Will God Intervene in Men's Affairs?"

Joins the Boy Scouts As Youth To Have Fun

"I joined the Boy Scouts not because I wanted to develop character or citizenship or anything like that," the young man said. "I joined to have fun, to go camping, to do the things the Boy Scouts were doing, but along the way the other things rubbed off on me, too.

The young man is Garland Groom, the local Boy Scout executive.

When he grew up he was doing so much Boy Scout work and believed in it so much that he did not go unnoticed. He was asked to go into Boy Scout work for pay, and he did, at a much lower salary than he was getting where he was then employed. The job, a great part of the time, is an almost around the clock job, and often seven days a week. But it is something he loves and he doesn't count the hours or the dollars, because he knows what his services mean to the group of growing boys. He knows for he joined the Boy Scouts when he was a kid because he wanted to go camping.

There are four full time Scout executives in the Lake of the Ozarks Council, and these are paid. Bob Mills, Jefferson City; William Schupp, Eldon, Lake District; Garland Groom, Twin Forks District and at the present time there is a vacancy. There are two paid secretaries in the Boy Scout Service Center at Jefferson City, and the full time camp ranger, who, in addition to his housing, receives the yearly sum of $825.

In the field of camping and outdoor activities practically all is paid for through Scouts' fees, not the budget. From the fees come the salaries of the staff average $25 a week. The key staff members, program director, the aquatic director and the Scout craft director, each receives less than $70 a week. They must be 21 years of age, and are on duty 24 hours a day, six days a week.

These, however, are the things that come from the budget: camp costs such as repairs, replacement, maintenance and insurance, not paid for by Scouts' fees. The salary of the camp ranger for the protection of the camp and the convenience of units using camp facilities throughout the year. The providing of troop leader's manual, camp slides, folders, literature, and aids to help units with the outdoor program.

Other things that the council provides through the budget is issuing of supplies of literature, insignia, forms, certificates, and advancement badges needed by the leader to carry on his program. Membership registrations, Boys' Life magazine subscriptions, and annual rechartering of all Scout units. It keeps training and advancement records. Produces bulletins to keep leaders informed of latest local and national events and program ideas. Handles phone calls and visitors seeking information and assistance in Scouting procedures. Produces district and council calendars and schedules, program kits, and program aids to assist leaders and committees. Make reservations for visual-aid equipment, camping, training events and special activities.

The professional staff of Scout executives, previously named, are paid by the council to train volunteer leaders on unit program activities and operations. Guide volunteer groups in the development of programs that directly benefit leaders and Scouts. Maintain liaison with sponsoring groups. Secure services through contacts with community clubs, churches, synagogues, labor, industry, government, etc., for all units that they alone could not obtain.

The council provides the unit with district and council activities and service, conducts activities in which units participate such as Boy Scout Week, Get-Out-the Vote, campaigns, camporees, expositions, Webelos days, canoe trips, jamborees, and Explorer expeditions. It works with community groups to arrange for Scout participation in civic affairs. Recruits and maintains a staff of volunteer commissioners for unit and committee visitation and counseling and roundtable planning and direction.

Education and relationship programs provided are: a library of training and promotional films, filmstrips, projectors, and screens at no cost to the unit. Monthly program roundtables for committeemen, leaders and Den Mothers. The Scouter's Key, Scouter's Training Award, Den Mother's Training Award, Silver Beaver and other recognitions. Junior leader training Award, Silver Beaver and other recognitions. Junior leader training camps and programs, den chief conferences, Den Mother training, Cub Scout pow wows, Exploring activities, paid in part by the council. A district merit badge counselor corps for more than 100 subjects. Public information programs. Materials and other costs for these services are included in the council's budget.

The budget, which provides all of these things, comes from the United Fund.

The Scout leaders are all volunteers and are paid not salary. They furnish their own uniforms, as do the executives. They furnish the transportation and many other costs. One man, who is in the insurance business, remarked he figured being a Scout leader cost him $2700 a year, and then he added, "But I feel it is the best $2700 that I spend."

The Boy Scouts of America is not a recreational movement, rather, it is an educational program dedicated to the responsibility of building better men for the communities, the country, the world. As an education movement, the Boy Scouts of America benefits the entire community, contributing to the general welfare of all people just as does education.

In keeping with this aim, Scouting is open to all boys who have a desire to join. Any boy can become a member by paying the nominal national membership fee and subscribing to a few fundamental principles.

The appeal of Scouting for boys lies in the opportunity it offers for doing things that are adventuresome and worthwhile; that gives boys a sense of achievement.

Fun, adventure, and action, that's what boys like. Scouting has it aplenty.

In the Twin Fork District there are 1171 boys, but more are needed and wanted.

Preparing for significant service to others, as well as for self-reliance, is at the root of Scouting's program of building America's future leaders.

News Briefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

OTTAWA (AP) — The former chief of Canada's Social Credit party reports that at least four Cuban Embassy employes have been expelled for subversive activities, including the sale of arms and ammunition to Quebec separatists.

Robert Thompson, in an open letter to Foreign Minister Paul Martin, said the activities also included distribution to university students of a handbook on guerrilla warfare by Che Guevara, the revolutionist recently slain in Bolivia.

Thompson said Tuesday he believed the explusions occurred some time ago, but a spokesman for the Foreign Ministry said he could not confirm this.

HONG KONG (AP) — Twenty persons were killed and about 30 were wounded this week in Canton when Chinese army troops clashed with 200 out-of-work textile workers, travelers arriving from Red China said today.

The troops were called in after the laborers surrounded their factory, which had closed because there was not enough work.

"The workers attacked the soldiers with meat cleavers, iron bars, clubs and their bare fists," said one traveler. "The injured were rushed to a Canton hospital and the dead were taken away in trucks."

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet newspaper said today it would publish two more articles by a purported turncoat from the CIA which would discredit State Department statements that he never worked for the American intelligence agency.

The newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta (Literary Gazette) said it "hopes that after having read further installments from the documentary account 'I Was a CIA Agent,' State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey will have no reason to doubt for whom John Smith worked."

Smith, whose mother lives in Quincy, Mass., was identified last week by the newspaper as a former State Department employe who quit the CIA in disgust and became a Soviet citizen. It carried an article by Smith attacking U.S. intelligence operations.

McCloskey said that Smith held low-level, technical jobs in various embassies but denied he was connected with the CIA.

MASS. DIDN'T RUSH

BOSTON (AP(— The first 10 amendments of the U. S. Constitution were proposed in 1789 to the first Congress of the United States and ratified by the constitutional number of states in 1791.

Massachusetts, however, did not ratify the amendments until March 2, 1939.

1,500 SUICIDES A YEAR IN SWEDEN

STOCKHOLM (AP)—There are more suicides than deaths through tarffic accidents in Sweden.

Anne-Marie Bolander, bureau director in the Central Office of Statistics, wrote in the "Medical Journal" that approximately 1,100 men and 400 women commit suicide each year while traffic deaths average 1,000 and 350 respectively.

She made these other observations:

Suicide is more common among the unmarried and the divorced than among married people, probably because alcoholism, jealousy, use of narcotics and mental illness is more prevalent among the former.

More suicides occur in spring and autumn than at other times of the year.

While men mostly take their lives by shooting, women usually resort to overdoses of sleeping pills and other drugs.

Dr. Trying To Correct Poor Airport Service

By Peter F. Daniels

In 1967 Dr. Holmes Wilbur, then a student pilot, heard comments about the Sedalia airport which were anything but complimentary. He said, "My ears perked up then and I've been interested in the airport ever since."

So much so, in fact, that he manages to handle the responsibilities of chairman of the Airport Board as well as his medical practice here.

Dr. Wilbur said he was taking flight instructions at the Warrensburg airport when he first heard comment about Sedalia. Students as well as veteran pilots said at that time if they were ever forced to land at Sedalia for fuel, it would be the last time.

"Sedalia had a bad reputation for poor service and we've been trying to live it down ever since. I think we've succeeded in offering better and faster service to pilots passing through. Sale of gasoline to pilots stopping at our airport has doubled in the last year. That can only mean more pilots stopping here," Dr. Wilbur said.

The airport board consists of Richard Fitzwilliam, John Pelham, Louis Hughes, Lou Temple, Jr., Dean Johnson and Dr. Wilbur. Of these six, three are, or have been, pilots. The board is well balanced and its administration of the airport has shown results.

Among other things, the airport has two new hangers, one of them belonging to the airport and the other to the Menefee Construction Co. Last fall work was completed on a "tie-down" area measuring about 125 feet by 500 feet in length. The hard surface area provides space for 18 aircraft to tie down. This took the place of a gravel and grass facility used then only during very bad weather.

The board has also seen to it that a new apron at the fuel pump area is being constructed. It will also be hard surface, replacing the loose gravel base which was a hazard to aircraft propellers.

Dr. Wilbur has some dreams about Sedalia's runway which may, in time, turn to reality. "We're considering a north-south runway to accommodate larger planes, such as those used by the Olin-Mathieson Corp., which uses jets for executive and shipping purposes."

The present runway, according to Dr. Wilbur, creates a problem. It's location results in undesirable crosswinds whenever bad weather crosses the city. "It's so bad at times that small aircraft can't land or take off here."

The existing runway is 3,600 feet long and 50 wide. Dr. Wilbur says it should be at least 7,000 feet in length and 150 wide to accommodate larger aircraft.

As of Monday, Dr. Wilbur said the board wasn't absolutely sure what would be done about a new runway. Several alternatives are to be considered: a new runway parallel to the old one, making the existing strip available as a taxi-way; building a north-south runway; or expanding the existing runway.

Dr. Wilbur has 173 hours of flying time to his credit and talks with authority about the problems and potentials of the local airport. When asked to outline the current needs he said:

"Our most immediate need is to install a "homer beacon" so that planes can land and take off despite bad weather. Then we need to establish a north-south runway. If we get the runway, we can think of improvements in other areas."

One of these, Dr. Wilbur said, involved some type of motel-restaurant combination on or adjacent to the airport. "I have hope that we can interest some one in such a project in time. It would be of great benefit not only to pilots, but to Sedalia in general."

The airport board, however, doesn't have this project on its list of "must" items. There are other things, already outlined, which need to be taken care of first.

If one judges on the basis of comments from airport board members, Dr. Wilbur is a dynamic man filled with an almost restless drive to improve the local airport and Sedalia's image at the same time.

John Pelham said of the board chsitmsn, "I don't know how the man does it. Being a doctor takes a lot of his time, but he's done a tremendous job for the airport here."

"Personally, I feel he's done a real fine job, considering the good of the airport first," Dean Johnson said. And Louis Hughes said: "Dr. Wilbur is one of the most dedicated, non-salaried, civic-minded men I've ever met. He is keenly interested in the airport and believes it is essential to Sedalia.

"None of the board members," he added, "are men you can easily push around. Yet, Dr. Wilbur has gotten more work out of the board than I think any other man could have."

It is a simple task to find glowing praise for the work Dr. Wilbur has done. He has put in countless hours on a document which is currently responsible for extensive study by the Federal Aviation Agency concerning the future of the Blackwater VOR (very high omni range) station.

It was Dr. Wilbur who spurred a local effort to save the station. He presented a document about an inch thick during a public hearing on the Blackwater question last August. The work is still under study. It went to great lengths, to minute detail, to explain the local viewpoint.

October marked the first birthday of the Sedalia Airport Board. If progress made in that first year is any indication, then much more seems to be in the future. Dr. Wilbur and the board members working with him appear to be men conscious of the city's needs and how they can best be served by the airport.

Industrial expansion here is bringing the airport into an ever-brighter spotlight. Problems are no longer ignored, but dealt with directly and corrected whenever possible. The dreams Dr. Wilbur has today could eventually be the reality of tomorrow. His board members, at least, are of that opinion.

Dorm That Dad Designed

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A set of twins who are freshmen at the University of Corpus Christi may have the most unusual reason yet for selecting a college: their father designed the dormitory they live in.

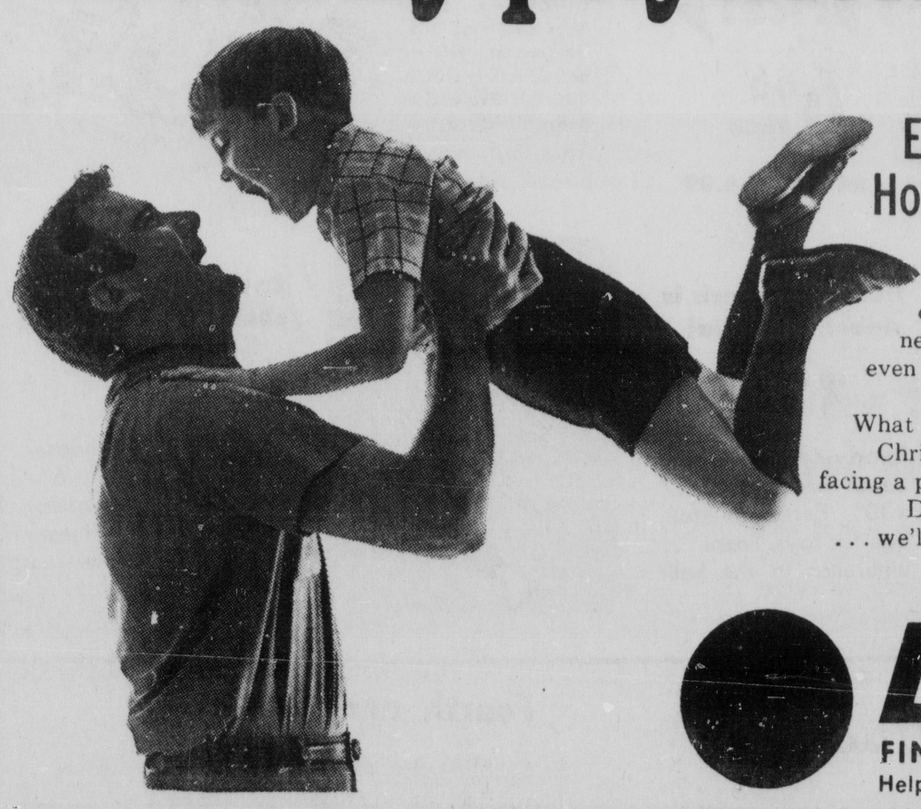

The boys, John and James Tucker, are sons of H. Arthur Tucker of Tulsa, Okla. He is chief architect of Tandy Industries Inc., the construction arm of CIT Educational Buildings Inc., which provided the university with a new, 144-bed dormitory for the start of the school year. They decided to enroll at UCC because of its business courses, recreational advantages and that dormitory that Dad designed.

Quitting Business

Brooks Bapple, 1911 East Broadway, owner and operator of the small novelty shop on the main floor lobby of the Pettis County Courthouse, is selling out. Brooks has been blind since the age of 23, but that isn't the reason he's quitting business. He's not making any money at the stand, he says, and besides, a man of 74 has to take the years left him to do other things. Among those, Brooks says, is the care of a greenhouse at his residence. Blind Man Is Quitting Courthouse Business

By Peter F. Daniels

Brooks Bapple, 1911 East Broadway, blind since the age of 23, has been operating a novelty shop at the Pettis County Courthouse since 1950. But now, at the age of 74, he's quitting business.

His blindness, caused by illness, isn't the reason for his self-imposed "retirement." In recent months, Brooks says, he's lost business at the courthouse. He's looking for some one to sell his shop to now—all of it, novelties included.

Brooks has other interests and he's anxious to spend more time on them.

When he first opened his stand in 1950, Brooks remembers, it was a make-shift affair built of shelves set against the wall. About five years later Brooks contacted Fred Bock, who in turn constructed the novelty shop as it is now.

Brooks said he was forced to leave the shop for six months once due to injuries he received in a fall. He had some one else operate it for him then.

Around 1962, he said, he sold the shop out-right to a man who later came to Brooks, asking him to buy it back.It had been out of Brooks' hands for about 17 months.

A former railroad shops employee, Brooks was forced to leave there due to his blindness. He didn't stop work, however. For some time he worked at State Fair Floral, where he became interested in greenhouse work.

It was about this time that he started growing his own vegetables. After leaving State Fair Floral, Brooks was in business for himself. "When the strike at the shops came in 1921," he said, "everybody started growing their own vegetables. It ruined me." He still didn't quit, however. He turned what he had learned into growing flowers, but that faded out too, for lack of a market.

"I'm not really a gardener. I have a greenhouse at home now, but I experiment more than anything else."

Brooks' sight is limited to distinguishing areas of light and dark. No images come through, however. It doesn't seem to bother him much. He walks around the courthouse with complete familiarity. Brooks said he used to walk to work, but now one of his three sisters, with whom he lives, brings him to the courthouse.

There are few people working in the courthouse whom Brooks doesn't know, or who don't know him. Almost every morning he walks up a flight of stairs and has coffee in the county clerk's office.

He dials a telephone the way most people do. As a matter of fact, there is little about the way Brooks handles himself that might indicate to a casual passer that he's blind. The white cane, of course, is a sign—practically the only one.

The most surprising thing about Brooks is the apparent lack of bitterness over his handicap. It hasn't slowed him down at all.

Once the novelty shop is sold, he says, he plans to spend most of his time in the greenhouse at home.

There was a ring of pride, and anticipation, in his voice when he said, "I've got six varieties of what they call surprise lillies growing. I'm trying to cross them, to get different colors." He says he has about 400 seedlings of blooming size and 90 others besides.

"I've never quit," he said. "I won't after I sell the shop either. I just hope I can sell it. If I can't I'll have to leave it for a while. Then, maybe, have it torn down and stored."

No matter what happens to the novelty stand, Brooks has something to look forward to—even if he can't actually see it.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office Department will take to the air more than ever before to carry first-class mail during the Christmas rush.

Christmas cards will get the special treatment only if they carry a five-cent stamp.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars are protesting new burial policies at Arlington National Cemetery by refusing to participate with other veterans' organizations in Veterans Day ceremonies at the cemetery.

The Department of Defense announced in February that Arlington had almost no burial plots left and that interment there would be available only to Medal of Honor winners, veterans who held high public office, career military men and those killed on active duty.

VFW Commander Joseph A. Scerra announced Tuesday the VFW would not join other organizations in the Veterans Day observance Nov. 11. Scerra was following orders spelled out in a resolution adopted in August at the VFW national convention.

The VFW's position, a spokesman said, is that all veterans are equally entitled under present law to burial in Arlington or any other national cemetery, and that the Department of Defense has no authority to make Arlington a special preserve for certain selected veterans.

Offer Of Help To Rocky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A political club that helped gain Republican presidential nominations for Thomas E. Dewey and Dwight D. Eisenhower wants to bestow the same favor on New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in 1968.

But Rockefeller said again Tuesday he isn't a candidate "and wouldn't be a candidate."

His statement came after the 1,500-member New York Young Republican Club said it will launch a draft Rockefeller campaign Nov. 8, no matter what the governor says. It was an early, enthusiastic backer of Dewey in 1948 and Eisenhower in 1952.

"The club's position," said Chairman Stanley B. Thomas of the group's board of directors, "is that the governor is the most qualified man in the United States to be president."

Another possible candidate for the GOP presidential nod meanwhile offered an alternative to President Johnson's Vietnam policy.

Michigan Gov. George Romney told a Providence, R.I., news conference the United States should press for neutralization of the Southeast Asian nations involved in the Vietnam fighting and thereby "defuse the war."

And Sen. Barry Goldwater, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee whom both Romney and Rockefeller refused to support, predicted neither would end up as the party's 1968 candidate.

That honor, Goldwater forecast in a Miami speech, would go to former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who did support the party's 1964 ticket.

In Sacramento, Calif., former Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who hints of mounting a third party presidential bid, drew thunderous applause from the conservative Comstock Club when he said the United States should be "a simple government of limited powers."

Wallace also claimed Negroes and whites get along better in Alabama than in most other places in the nation.

Army Gals Eager to Go

By TOM TIEDE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—There is some serious, if unofficial, talk among Army people here that future troop deployments to the Vietnam war may include more women.

The possibility draws only scant comment from Pentagon brass of either sex, but it is obvious to even the casual observer that the noncombative Women's Army Corps is one of the nation's most tempting and available escalation resources.

At present the service has 10,000 women in ranks. A crash recruitment program under way will swell the total by 3,600 officers and enlisted personnel by the end of 1969.

Few of the girls can fire a rifle but evidence is they are capable of handling dozens of combat supporting responsibilities. The corps' record in Vietnam to date, though limited, has been spotless.

For their part, the gals are anxious to go.

"We're always standing by," says Corps Director Col. Elizabeth Hoisington. "We're well-trained and ready. We'll do whatever Uncle Sam tells us to do.

"The Department of the Army has said nothing at all. Until it does, we'd rather not speculate."

As it stands now, the WACs are only slightly represented in the war. There are 120 of them in Vietnam today, or about 1 per cent of over-all strength. By comparison, the regular Army has over 25 per cent of its force in Southeast Asia.

The women, however, have increased their contingent noticeably in past months. Until the fall of last year, there were less than two dozen WACs in Saigon.

The build-up was in the form of a 90-woman company of typists. They were ordered to Vietnam late in 1966 and, according to a spokesman, "began straightening out the impossible mess left by the men who had previously handled the office work."

The WAC force is strictly voluntary. It includes 20 officers, including three colonels. Each girl serves at least a one-year tour. Compensation includes $65 monthly combat pay.

Most of the women are stationed in Saigon and most are engaged in office aid of some sort. Much of their work, they say, involves "smiling and filing." Gen. William Westmoreland's stenographer, for example, is chatty, three-striped and blonde.

But the WACs have strategic duties as well.

Currently, corps members are stressing dialogue with their counterparts in the Vietnamese Women's Armed Forces. A lieutenant colonel and ranking sergeant have been assigned as full-time advisers to their Viet opposites.

As a result, WACs are training Vietnamese women both in Saigon and the United States (Ft. McClellan) and are thereby influencing an important faction of Viet society.

Col. Hoisington points to this "advisory responsibility" as an indication that the corps is not in Vietnam simply to spring desk-ridden GIs loose for combat.

Says she: "Twenty-five years ago when the WACs were created, the idea was to put efficient girls in many of the office slots . . . and that way the men could forget all the details and get on with the fighting.

"It doesn't work that way any more. In all cases, clerical or whatever, the jobs we have in Vietnam are interchangeable. That is, either men or women can and do handle them. depending on who is available.

"We are not replacing any men in Vietnam. We are part of the Army's regular table of distribution and, as such, are handling Army jobs rather than feminine jobs."

However they're described, WAC jobs in Saigon seem to have a magnetism about them. Many corps women are extending their war tours by six months, and the waiting list for replacement is, according to Col. Hoisington, "crammed."

Thus, volunteers for any war call-up are no problem.

Many of these girls hope they get the word soon. They say they crave the excitement, the responsibility and the $65 combat pay. "Besides," winks one of them, "any place with half a million GIs in it sounds like a good place to work."

Drug Sales Discovered

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Cummins Prison Farm trustys have been peddling drugs to other inmates under a haphazard medical program that cost the state some $8,000 to $9,000 a month, a new state prison doctor revealed.

Dr. Edwin M. Barron Jr. of Little Rock said Tuesday the drugs included talwin, a synthetic narcotic; demerol, which is habit-forming, and "any type of drug that anyone could conceivably get high on."

He added, however, that no powerful addictives such as heroin were involved. He said the trustys had ordered the drugs on prison requisition.

Darron, who became the prison physician about six weeks ago, said examinations and talks with other prisoners disclosed that the five trustys who were operating the medical program sold stimulants to a "clique of prisoners" in the barracks, who in turn retailed them to other prisoners.

Sentencing Is Put Off

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Superior Court officials said Tuesday that sentencing of Robert Benjamin Smith, convicted of killing four women and a girl, has been postponed until Nov. 8.

Smith, 19, a former Mesa High School honor student, was found guilty of the Nov. 12, 1966, mass slaying last week by a jury which fixed his penalty at death.

The sentencing had been set for Tuesday but was postponed because Smith's attorney, Rod Wood, was ill.

Under state law, the judge must carry out the jurors' decree in pronouncing sentence.

Governor didn't mention the effect on the opposition.

Kansan On His Way Setting Pass Records

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dave Jones of Kansas State, a flanker with all the moves and great hands, seems certain to smash all the career pass receiving records in Big Eight football.

Jones heads into Saturday's big game at Kansas with 67 catches for 1,090 yards in 16 collegiate games. He's a junior with 14 games left, so the career records seem in easy reach. The yardage mark is 1,411 by Jim Doran of Iowa State in 1948-49-50. Eppie Barney of Iowa State set the career mark of 97 catches in 1964-65-66.

As a 175-pound high school halfback, Jones was recommended to Kansas by his prep coach, Bill Schaake, a Kansas graduate. But the Jayhawk staff headed by Jack Mitchell decid-Jones was too small and too slow to be a Big Eight halfback. K-State's Ed Dissinger signed him and Doug Weaver, then head coach, made him a receiver.

Vince Gibson, new K-State coach, said before the season "if Dave doesn't catch 50 passes this year, I'm gonna be one sick guy."

At his current pace, Jones will have 53 catches for 610 yards.

Jones wanted to play football so much he left home to live with his grandmother in Goodland, Kan., his sophomore year when he discovered Kanorado High near the Colorado border was dropping football.

"I went home on weekends," he said. His grandmother, Winona Jones, 87, still follows his career closely. He and his father, Ivan Jones, 45, like to go coyote hunting in the western flat country.

Jones is getting a strong challenge for the Big Eight receiving crown from Iowa State's Tom Busch, a wingback of many talents.

Busch caught 13 passes for 134 yards against Kansas, giving him 26 for 350 this season. Jones has 32 for 369 and Nebraska's Dennis Richnafsky, who is out with an injury, 29 for 347.

Busch was relieved of his placekicking and punting duties this fall. He said "this has given men more time to work with the quarterback on pass patterns."

Bob Douglass of Kansas took over the passing lead 902 yards to 829 for Nebraska's Frank Patrick. Each has thrown four TD passes. In total offense, Douglass widened his lead. He now has 1,056 yards against 879 for Bob Anderson of Colorado. Both have averaged 5.1 yards a play.

Oklahoma's Bob Warmack has a leading 6.1 average and his .603 pass completion percentage also is the best.

It's a close race in rushing, with Steve Owens of Oklahoma at 484, Barry Lischner of Missouri 467, Ron Shotts of Oklahoma 445, Cornelius Davis of K-State 443, Gary Kombrink of Missouri 439 and Dick Davis of Nebraska 430.

Other leaders remained the same except in scoring where Douglass took over first place alone with 36 points. He has thrown for 24 more.

Tigers To Take On Hillcrest

The Smith-Cotton Tigers take on an extremely tough Springfield Hillcrest football team this Friday night at Springfield. Game time is 8 p.m. According to head coach Charles "Chuck" Shelton, the Tigers will have to be at their best to make victory possible. Hillcrest has a senior ball club that lost by only one point to the Kansas City Star's number one ranked team, Springfield Central.

The weather has hampered Tiger practices by not allowing them to go out on the field Monday night and keeping Tuesday night's ball practice short. This has been the major concern of Coach Shelton who says, "I have found that you do the things in the game poorly that you haven't been able to work on during the week. This week we have had to do away with sled work and individual drills in order to get our team work accomplished. We hope that we are far enough along in the season that it won't tell greatly and at the same time hope that Hillcrest is having the same problem.

"But we need all the practice we can get. We have changed in the last two weeks from a team of competitors to a group fighting to hang on and we must get back on the competitive end of things. The fact that last week's score against Helias doesn't tell the whole story of the ball game is irrevalent. We broke down badly in many areas and needed a full week of uninterrupted practices in order to get them straightened out. This hasn't been that week. We can only hope and hope has never been a very good substitute for work."

So far this season, the Bengals have a 2-6 record, but several of the games, such as the one with Mexico two weeks ago, have been close contests.

Starting lineups for this game Friday with Hillcrest have not been released.

Vernon Law, who pitched 18 seasons for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was named Pirate pitching coach. The 37-year-old righthander had asked to be placed on the voluntary retired list last August after suffering a groin injury while pitching against the New York Mets. (UPI)

Sharkey Outlasts Bob Brown

Ed. Sharkey, the up and coming heavyweight from Minnesota, outlasted the big bad rough and tough Bob Brown from Canada, in their "death match" Tuesday night at convention hall, Liberty Park. It came to an end in 22 minutes and 35 seconds when Brown was unable to get to his feet and continue.

Both had won three falls each, but in that final period, both men were fairly well beaten down, with Sharkey able to put a couple of knee lifts and a slash strike across Browns neck, after which he pinned him. At the count of 10 and Brown was unable to get up, the event was awarded to Sharkey who was hanging on the ropes.

The semi-final event which brought together The Hangman and Little Bruiser as a team against Earl Maynard and Lord Littlebrook. Littlebrook had The Hangman nearly "crazy" with his antics, and when he tagged in The Bruiser to draw Littlebrook into the ring, Littlebrook finally with scissors holds on The Bruiser won the first fall in 15 minutes and 38 seconds. Maynard came back to pin The Hangman for the second fall in seven minutes and 30 seconds.

Lord Littlebrook in the opening event of the evening beat The Bruiser in their one-fall, 15-minute time limit match. He took the fall in eight minutes and 40 seconds, after using a series of backflips and body slams to the canvass.

The opening event, brought a lot of approval from the fans between Ronnie Etchison and Steve Bolas was strictly straight wrestling. It went to a draw after 20-minutes had elapsed in the one-fall time limit event.

Next Tuesday night midgets are scheduled to return along with an all-star card.

One Main Ambition For Liz

NEW YORK (AP) — Liz Young, a blonde, 18-year-old sophomore at Southern Illinois University, has one main ambition in life right now, she said firmly today.

"I want to make the United States Equestrian team," she announced. "I am taking the present semester off from college to concentrate on my riding. I haven't set any time limit for myself. I'll just keep plugging along until I make it."

All the U.S. Equestrian team brass was on hand at the opening of the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night and their eyes almost popped when Miss Young piloted Snow Cap, her 6-year-old grey gelding to victory in first open jumper class.

Snow Cap was one of a dozen mounts to go clean in the first round. In the jumpoff, she was up against the likes of Nanticoke, a former open jumper champion at the National. In My Cap and Gustavas, all ridden by Rod Jenkins, a professional from Orange, Va.

Snow Cap was last out of the gate in the jumpoff. Five other horses had gone clean. Nanticoke's clocking of :37.8 was the one she had to beat—and with a clean run. Beat it she did in :37.5 without a fault.

"Very impressive, indeed," mused U.S. Equestrian Coach, Bert De Nemethy, who watched the action from the sidelines.

De Nemethy's riders, meanwhile, confounded the experts by winning the first two international classes, the West Point Trophy in the afternoon and the Democrat Trophy in the night session which officially opened the 84th edition of the ancient show.

Mrs. Mary Chapot of Wallpack, N.J., riding Manon, captured the West Point event with four of the first five finishers all from the United States. Night Spree, under Neal Shapiro of Old Brookville, N.Y., took the Democrat Trophy after a jumpoff with his teammate, Carol Hofmann of North Beach, N.J.

Will Compete

MANILA (AP) — Filipino golfers Ben Arda and Celestino Tugot, both veterans of Canada Cup play and the Far East open circuit, are scheduled to leave Monday for Mexico City to compete in the 15th annual International Golf Championship and World Cup Tournament Nov. 9-12.

McCormick Wins Cy Young Award

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif., (AP)— Lefty Mike McCormick, baseball's Comeback Player of of the Year, is the happy winner of the Cy Young Award as the National League's outstanding pitcher of 1967.

"I think this is the realization of every pitcher's dream," Mike exclaimed at his home in Mountain View, some 40 miles south of Candlestick Park, where he performs his heroics for the San Francisco Giants.

"It certainly is the cake-icing of my playing year.

"In all honesty, my family and I are very elated.

"It's the highest award a pitcher can get. There's not much more I can say."

The award was voted Tuesday by the Baseball Writers Association of America, and McCormick got 18 of the 20 votes cast by the writers — two from each league city. Fergus Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs and Jim Bunning of the Philadelphia Phillies got one vote each.

McCormick's magnificent 22-10 record was tops in the league and led the Giants to a strong second-place finish in the pennant race.

At the age of 29, and once considered washed up, he pitched 14 complete games, worked 262 innings, and had an earned-run average of 2.85.

Big Eight Glimpses

LAWRENCE, Kan. — "You don't stop fighting a war because it rains," Coach Pepper Rodgers said Tuesday as he put his Kansas football team through a second day of outside work in the rain. Kansas plays Kansas State Saturday at Lawrence and Rodgers said, "The winner will be the team that makes the fewest mistakes."

BOULDER, Colo. — Coach Eddie Crowder said Tuesday the big question is whether Wilmer Cooks, Colorado's No. 1 fullback, will play Saturday against Oklahoma at Norman. Cooks, a 224-pound senior, worked out Tuesday with the starting offensive unit but was not at top speed, Crowder said.

———

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Rain forced Missouri gridders to practice indoors Tuesday for the second day. Jon Staggers, sophomore halfback out three weeks with a dislocated shoulder, took part in several plays and Coach Dan Devine said he looked pretty good.

———

MANHATTAN, Kan. — Kansas State Coach Vince Gibson said Tuesday he was pleased with his football team's performance in practice so far this week. "We're doing the job in practice like we did earlier in the season. We are on our way back."

———

AMES, Iowa — Iowa State gridders worked out for an hour and 35 minutes Tuesday in preparation for Saturday's game at Nebraska. Coach Clay Stapleton said linebackers Don Graves and Larry Thompson are definitely out of the game because of leg injuries.

———

STILLWATER, Okla. — A chilling drizzle failed to dampen the spirit of Oklahoma State Gridders Tuesday and Coach Phil Cutchin was so pleased with the workout that he sent the boys in early. The Cowboys play Missouri Saturday at Stillwater.

———

NORMAN, Okla.—Guard Bill Elfstrom and tackle Bob Kalsu were sent to the infirmary Tuesday with the 24-hour flu and fullback Rick Baldridge missed practice because of a neck problem. Coach Chuck Fairbanks said the Oklahoma practice was "pretty good," despite wet, cold and sloppy conditions.

———

LINCOLN, Neb. — Hope was held out by Nebraska football coaches Tuesday that despite a bruised shoulder, Dana Stephenson may be able to handle the punting against Iowa State Saturday. Bob Best is expected to replace him as a defensive back and safety Marv Mueller also may see some action in the spot with Randy Reeves taking over at safety. The injured Dennis Richnafsky, top pass catcher, is being replaced at split end by flanker Tom Penne.

Shy Knows Road To New Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Don Shy knows how it feels to be a potential goat one minute and a football hero the next.

When the former track star fumbled a New Orleans punt in the fourth quarter Sunday, horns began to sprout. But Shy quickly recovered and, five plays later, scooted 33 yards for Pittsburgh's winning touchdown.

Shy's feat of gaining 108 yards on only 10 carries in the Steelers' 14-10 victory over the Saints, earned him The Associated Press' recognition as Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

The Steelers' No. 2 draft choice (they had traded away No. 1) was a great track star at San Diego State where he competed as a hurdler and also in the decathlon.

Shy started the season as the Steelers' third halfback behind Cannonball Butler and Dick Hoak but has moved up when opportunities developed through injuries and his own ability.

Speaking to staffer Ben Thomas after the game in New Orleans, Shy said, "That was the first time I ever handled a punt." (He fumbled but recovered on the Saints' 48 midway in the last quarter.)

Shy passed on the credit for the winning touchdown run to his blockers. "We trapped the end and I got two great blocks," he said, "one from Earl Gros and another downfield from Roy Jefferson."

Shy got into the game after Butler was injured in the second quarter. He had run only 17 times for 55 yards before Sunday's game but wound up the top rusher of the day.

He ranks seventh in the league in kickoff returns. His brother, Les, is a running back with the Dallas Cowboys.

Teams Accept Invitations To Soccer Cup

Tournament Director for the Sedalia Junior Cup Tournament on Nov. 11 and 12, Jim Koerner, announced today the acceptance of an invitation by the Belleville Junior Chamber of Commerce Soccer team. The Belleville team rounds out the four-team selection for this years cup play, with Tower Heating and St. Lou A.C. South previously announcing their participation.

The Belleville team has just opened league play and by tournament time will have but three league contests under their belts. They are coached by Fritz Frenman and Steve Solan, two of the best-known east side coaches in the Illinois Khoury Circuit.

The team is mostly made of players from Cathedral and Althoff High who during high school league play usually are in the thick of the battle for the Tri-County Illinois Championship.

Koerner stated that little is known about the team except that the players come from two known soccer high schools of Illinois and that their coaches are highly respected for their winning tradition and sportsmanship by Greater St. Louis soccer coaches.

Tower Heating, tournament favorites, have drawn Belleville in the opening round of the Tournament play, Saturday Nov. 11, while Sedalia is matched up against the St. Lou A. C. South club.

Tickets for the tourney can be bought from any Khoury Soccer player, coach, or league official. offi.cial.

One of the local highlights to Saturday night's action will be the appearance of the Smith-Cotton Pep Band between contests, under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Schrader.

Melinkovich Is On Active List

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions of the National Football League activated Mike Melinkovich from the taxi squad Tuesday to replace defensive tackle Denis Moore, who underwent knee surgery today in a Detroit hospital.

Melinkovich, a 6-foot-3, 245-pounder, played two seasons with the St. Louis Cardinals. Moore was injured against San Francisco last Sunday.

Palmer's Fans Buzzing Already

HONOLULU (AP)—Practice for the $100,000 Hawaii Open Golf Tournament has begun and the magic name Arnold Palmer already has golf fans buzzing.

As Palmer and Doug Sanders shot a practice round together on the 7,000-yard, par 72 Waialae course, a huge throng followed. Most were Palmer fans but a large contingent wore signs with Sanders' name.

Sanders had about a 67 and Palmer about a 70 as both golfers picked up short putts.

Steve Spray, the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, unknown who was second last week in the rich Sahara Invitational Golf Tourney, shot a practice round without a soul around.

Forecaster's Dream

Tradition Game Time Approaches

NEW YORK (AP) — The time for traditional games is approaching and it also appears traditional that a forecaster can guess right on only about three-fourths of the games. Last week's average was .742, lifting the season's figure to .718.

Southern California over California: The Trojans get the chance to show that they have more than Orange Juice Simpson in their lineup. Off their respective games with Washington, Southern California should win by three touchdowns.

UCLA over Oregon State: Gary Beban will produce another of his extra special, peachy miracles and UCLA will go on to defeat the team that spilled Purdue.

Tennessee over Tampa: The only excuse for this one is that they are dedicating a new stadium at Tampa.

North Carolina State over Virginia: NC State has won seven straight this season by allowing each of its opponents a single touchdown while getting three in each game. The margin shouldn't be changed much.

Houston over Georgia; Warren McVea is the biggest thing to hit Houston since the Astrodome. Georgia suffers its second defeat of the season.

Purdue over Illinois: Everybody scores on Purdue but very few score enough to beat the Boilermakers.

Indiana over Wisconsin: That Harry Gonso of the Hoosiers just loves to run and run. The impotent Badger defense should give him the chance.

Wyoming over San Jose: Jerry DePoyster is rated the best field goal kicker in college football.

Colorado over Oklahoma: The Sooners have come fast since their loss to Texas but are they fast enough to catch Wilmer Cooks?

Notre Dame over Navy: The Terry Hanratty to Jim Seymour battery is sound again and the 270-pound Kevin Hardy is about ready to throw his weight around again.

Alabama over Mississippi State: There are too few Mississippi Staters to contain the Crimson Tide once it starts to roll.

Dartmouth over Yale: Yale's chances are centered on quarterback Brian Dowling and he isn't sound. Dartmouth proud of its defense.

Nobis Is Thinking More Now

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Hulking linebacker Tommy Nobis is doing "a lot more thinking" on the field this year, and it's beginning to pay off for him and the Atlanta Falcons.

The payoff for the Falcons was their first victory of the season last Sunday, 21-20 over Minnesota. For Nobis, the personal dividends included his selection as The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

The 238-pound Texan nabbed two Viking passes for interceptions, setting up one touchdown and scoring another.

The red-haired, freckle-faced Nobis, quick despite his bullish build but with no illusions of great speed, picked off a pass by Joe Kapp of the Vikings in the second quarter and returned it to the Vikings' 23. Four plays later, Randy Johnson passed to Tommy McDonald for a touchdown.

In the final quarter, Minnesota's Ron VanderKelen threw hurriedly, and the ball hit Karl Rubke's helmet, bouncing about 30 feet in the air.

Paul Flatley of the Vikings and Nobis clawed at the ball, but both fell with Nobis claiming the ball while flat on his back. Hauling himself up rapidly, he rambled 41 yards, taking one defender with him into the end zone for what proved to be the winning touchdown.

It was only his third pass interception as a pro and his first touchdown since he played quarterback as a sophomore in high school.

His hectic dash to the goal brought the usual kidding. "That field sure was long," said the sign a teammate taped on his locker.

"You were so slow they had started the instant replay on television before you scored," his father, Tommy Sr., quipped.

"I think this guy is the greatest middle linebacker in football," Falcons Coach Norb Hecker said. "His development has exceeded our wildest dreams."

Hawkins Starter For Colts

BALTIMORE (AP) — Alex Hawkins has become a starter at end on the Baltimore Colts. But the old hawk has no illusions of grandeur.

"I'll be just as happy to be back up as long as we win," said the nine-year veteran of the National Football League. "I don't mind being a substitute as long as I think I can help."

Hawkins has done that. As a substitute for a substitute, he has caught passes for two touchdowns which have helped keep the Colts the only undefeated team in professional football.

One was in a 24-24 tie against the Los Angeles Rams with only five days of practice after his return to the Colts from the Atlanta Falcons where he went last year in the NFL expansion. The other was Sunday at Washington where he led all receivers by gaining 95 yards in Baltimore's 17-13 victory.

He started the game because Ray Perkins, already listed as a sub for Raymond Berry, was bothered with a pulled leg muscle.

For most of his seven previous seasons with the Colts, Hawkins labored on the specialty teams—punts and kickoffs. Even there, though, he gained fame as Captain Who—a nickname acquired when he was introduced in pregame ceremonies along with the offensive and defensive captains of the Colts.

When Hawkins was reclaimed from the discard list this season, it naturally was assumed he would be limited to appearances on the specialty teams. Coach Don Shula was of the same mind, but said that Jim Welch had done such a good job as specialty captain he would retain the title.

But the hawk will get it after all. Welch suffered a back injury Sunday and will be out of action for several weeks.

Los Angeles Is Initiated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings brazenly romped unbeaten in their first five games in the National Hockey League.

But the expansion club was soundly initiated Tuesday night.

The rough New York Rangers with a 6-1 victory handed Los Angeles its third loss. The Kings have two draws.

The Kings moved to a 1-0 lead after 1:31 of the opening period Tuesday night but from there on New York goalie Ed Giacomin was tough.

The Rangers tied it 1-1 in the second period, and Vic Hadfield and Reg Fleming scored back-to-back goals within 24 seconds. Rod Gilbert capped the New York scoring with his 100th goal in the final minutes of the game.

An Open Fireplace Can Be a Cozy Thing

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I think Mrs. K. A. R. should ignore the opinions of friends who warned her of the resulting dirt and go ahead with her ideas for an open fireplace. I had never been without one until we moved from New England to Florida, to enjoy our September years, and bought a cracker-box farmhouse in this glorious Southland. Since it had no fireplace, we lost no time in designing and having one built. To use it means companionship, warmth and it is a maker of dreams as we look into it and see the things we want to see. It spells family love. Yes, Mrs. K.A.R., have the fireplace, enjoy it and think of us transplanted New Englanders who never before had it so good.—MILDRED

DEAR POLLY—In my opinion a fireplace adds more to a home than any other luxury. If the damper in the chimney is used correctly there is no reason for smoke in the house. As for dust, the ashes can be removed easily and without spreading all over the room.

I use a large grocery bag, sprinkle the inside with water, then use a short-handled shovel to put the ashes in the bag. Set the bag as close under the chimney opening as possible so the dust will go up the chimney.

Of course, the paper bag is only used when there are no live coals. I remove the ashes in the morning after the fire is out, then put more kindling and logs in place so they are ready to light in the evening when my husband and children are at home. There is nothing more homey and beautiful than an open fire.—MRS. M. A. C.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have a mattress that is still good but it could stand a good cleaning. I would really appreciate it if someone could suggest a way to clean a mattress without it getting soaked.—MAE

Challenge Missouri Turnpike

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., (AP)—A suit challenging constitutionality of Missouri's new toll turnpike law was filed in Cole County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Robert L. Hyder, chief counsel for both the Highway Commission and the Turnpike Authority, said it was hoped the case could be switched to the State Supreme Court within the next two weeks for an early decision.

If the law is upheld, he said, that would clear the way for work to start on some toll route by March or April.

The friendly test suit was filed by two road contractors in behalf of all motor vehicle taxpayers in Missouri with the Sate Highway Commission as defendant.

The contractors are Joseph L. Pohl Contractor, Inc. of Nevada and Menefee Construction Co., Inc. of Sedalia in the form of a suit to bar the Highway Commission from acting under the new law.

Hyder said the Supreme Court would be asked to grant a writ of prohibition to remove the case from the Circuit Court and pass it immediately on to the Supreme Court.

All aspects of the new turnpike law, sponsored by Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, are attacked in the petition—especially whether state road funds can be used to lease toll roads from the Turnpike Authority and use state gas tax funds to maintain them.

The legality of the Turnpike Authority's composition is also challenged. Under the law, the authority consists of the present six highway commissioners plus the governor and the suit raises the question whether the two bodies are separate agencies and can contract with each other.

It also questions whether the Highway Commission can lend technical help to the Turnpike Authority and whether it can let contracts to private businesses such as filling stations and restaurants.

Representing the contractors as attorney is James W. Kelly, secretary of the Associated Contractors of Missouri. He said the Associated Contractors is in no way involved in the class action.

Hyder said the suit is broad enough to answer any legal questions that might be raised by prospective revenue bond buyers, thus eliminating the necessity for a second court test on that score.

Both Hyder and Kelly said the test suit was brought to speed up construction of turnpikes, provided favorable feasibility reports are received and the required revenue bonds can be sold at an acceptible rate of return.

Daniels Tops In Rushing

NEW YORK (AP) — A 94-yard performance against San Diego last Sunday gave Oakland's Clem Daniels a career rushing total of 5,008, making him the first man in the American Football League to reach the 5,000-mark.

But, AFL statistics show today, Daniels, with 482, is still far behind defending rushing champion Jim Nance of Boston for the season.

Nance leads the rushers with 714 yards while Mike Garrett of Kansas City is third with 479. Houston's Hoyle Granger, with 425, slipped from second to fourth.

Len Dawson of Kansas City continues as the leading passer, but San Diego's Lance Alworth has replaced Hewritt Dixon of Oakland as the top pass receiver. Alworth, last year's titlist, caught 10 passes against Oakland and has 41 for the season.

Dixon is tied with Don Maynard of New York for second, each with 36.

Another Jet, Emerson Boozer, maintained his huge scoring lead, scoring his 13th touchdown for a total of 78 points. Teammate Jim Turner is a distant second with 56 points.

Miller Farr and Jim Norton, both of Houston, share the pass interception lead with six steals each while Denver's Bob Scarpitto is the top punter with a 47.7 average.

New York Offense Is Best

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's offense still is the best in the National Football League, Green Bay's defense is the best and the Sunday scoreboard proves the point.

The Giants, who rolled to a 38-34 victory over Cleveland's powerful Browns, have been averaging 392 yards per game.

Green Bay, which has limited the opposition to an average of 212 yards a day, was stung by the St. Louis attack of Jim Hart but still managed to beat the Cardinals 31-23 Monday night with their defense.

The Los Angeles Rams are tops in running with 159 yards a game.

Baltimore's passing attack rolls up 279 yards a game although it has produced only 12 touchdowns passing as compared to the Giants' total of 18.

That stingy Packer defense is first in total yardage allowed and also in pass defense. However, the Cards shot a few holes in that pass umbrella and gained 289 yards in one game through the air. Green Bay's average against passers still is only 90 yards per game. The Rams have the best defensive rushing average, 75 yards per game.

St. Louis has had its passer caught only five times, (three by Green Bay Monday night) and San Francisco has smeared the enemy passer 22 times although it had trouble protecting its own John Brodie against Detroit last Sunday.

Ledbetter Goes To Buffalo Team

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo of the American Football League has claimed and activated flanker-split end Monte Ledbetter, a rookie cut by the Houston Oilers last Friday when the Bills activated Glen Bass and Lionel Taylor.

Ledbetter, 24, who spent last season on Houston's taxi squad, fills the vacancy created by injured middle-linebacker Harry Jacobs, who is sidelined for the rest of the season.

Beaty And Hawks On Their Way

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Zelmo Beaty is off to one of his best starts in the National Basketball Association. So are the St. Louis Hawks.

The Hawks made it nine victories in 10 starts by defeating Baltimore 114-103 Tuesday night with Beaty showing the way with 28 points. The victory strengthened the Hawks' hold on first place in the Western Division.

Seattle beat Chicago 114-104 and San Francisco whipped New York 108-103 in the other scheduled NBA games.

Kentucky beat New Jersey 107-104, Minnesota overpowered Houston 108-91 and Anaheim edged Oakland 126-123 in the American Basketball Association.

Beaty, a 1962 Little All-America with Prairie View, is the No. 1 scorer for the Hawks. He tallied six straight points in the last period to erase a Baltimore lead and put the Hawks comfortably ahead on their home court.

Walt Hazzard, former UCLA star, led Seattle to its home court victory over Chicago with 34 points. Six of them came in a row with the Sonics ahead 105-100 to put the game out of reach of the Bulls. It was the ninth straight defeat for the winless Bulls.

San Francisco won its fifth in a row and handed New York its sixth straight defeat. Nate Thurmond, with 26 points and 27 rebounds, paced the Warriors.

Phil Jackson, New York rookie from North Dakota, was ejected by referee Bill Kunkel during a rumpus late in the game at the Oakland Coliseum.

Dick Barnett, with 19 points, was high scorer for New York.

Send Letters For Baseball Franchises

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Letters inviting written statements are being sent to five persons who have shown interest in obtaining an American League baseball franchise for Kansas City.

The letters were addressed to Ewing Kauffman, Ernest Hueter, Alex Barket, Richzrd Stern and Lamar Hunt.

Hunt owns the Kansas City Chiefs in the American Football League, Kauffman is president of Marion Laboratories, Hueter is president of Interstate Bakeries, Barket is president of Civic Plaza National Bank and Stern is president of Stern Brothers.

Dutton Brookfield, chairman of the Jackson County Sports Complex Authority, said any interested person or persons will be considered. "We certainly don't want to limit this to any particular group of persons," he said.

Any prospective owner will be expected to negotiate an agreement with the sports authority to offer the club to local purchasers before selling it to nonresident owners should the club ever be sold.

The Kansas City Athletics were recently granted permission by the league to move to Oakland, Calif.

Major Is Relieved Of Post

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Air Force Maj. William Curtis Malone, shot in the shoulder last week and sued Monday for $200,000 for allegedly seducing a sergeant's wife, has been relieved of his post as family services officer, a Tinker Air Force Base spokesman said Tuesday.

Sgt. Hilary V. Jones filed a damage suit in federal court, alleging Malone seduced his wife while the sergeant was in Vietnam.

The FBI said Mrs. Jones turned over to Air Force police a gun allegedly used in the shooting near the base officer's club. Mrs. Jones has not been charged and is not under arrest.

Malone was only slightly wounded and was preparing to transfer to Clark AFB in the Phillippines at the time of the shooting.

The FBI investigated the incident and said Tuesday the U.S. district attorney's office declined to prosecute anyone in the shooting.

Jones, in his petition, asserted Malone used his position as family services officer to gain entry into the Jones' home and seduce his wife repeatedly through the use of threats and drugs.

Also, the petition alleged, Malone told Mrs. Jones six days after the officer was divorced from his own wife that the sergeant was killed in Vietnam.

The major took Mrs. Jones to Wichita Falls, Tex., obtained a marriage license and tried to force the woman to marry him, the petition charged.

Coach Is Using A Computer Now

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — South Carolina Coach Paul Dietzel is using a computer in an effort to help the football fortunes of his Gamecocks.

"The system doesn't give us any additional information," Dietzel explained Tuesday. "But it analyzes it and condenses it for us by Monday morning rather than Thursday."

Dietzel is feeding all scouting reports into the electronic brain.

Common Non-sense Prevails

NEW YORK--(NEA)—Walter O'Malley would have to pick this time to be on safari in Africa. The thought of having to make a decision without The O'Malley to dictate it has left the National League office blustering.

While Sir Walter was off chasing water elephants in the veldt, the American League took the unilateral action of expanding its frontiers to 12 teams—by 1969, yet.

"Let's be reasonable," protested Warren Giles, the president of the National League. Warren dealt from a weak hand in that plea. He hasn't had to put up with Charles O. Finley.

"Reasonable" to Warren means deliberating at least three, four or five years before deciding to branch out the operation. At the very least, he expected the American League to adhere to a 1971 time table. By which time, Sir Walter would definitely be back from Africa and the National League might have figured out a way to squeeze into Seattle before its laggardly brother league.

Remember, the National League has a long history of beating younger brother to the punch. The old St. Louis Browns were on the verge of moving into Los Angeles when World War II knocked them right out of the box. By the time the subject was revived, O'Malley was already gouging earth out of Chavez Ravine.

When the American League thought of Houston as fertile ground, the National boys sneaked in first. Charley Finley was the first guy who stood on a reclaimed slum pile within sight of the Georgia state capitol and proclaimed, "This is beautiful." But the Milwaukee Braves took their carpet bag to Atlanta first.

"Baseball," says one prominent official of the game, "has never made forward, progressive action except under strife and stress." Obviously, he didn't want to be named.

The latest contretemps adheres to the pattern, except that the American League has finally taken the initiative. And everybody, except Warren Giles, thinks it beautiful.

The realistic effect of the American League action will be to create a structure of 24 major league teams by 1969. It's inconceivable that the American circuit will encompass Seattle and Oakland, while creating a new Kansas City team, without the National League following suit.

There'd be too great an inequity on such important matters as the draft of talent, the split of television money, etc., for the National League to allow itself to be outnumbered.

Therefore, although it hasn't been announced, the National League has already scheduled a meeting for Nov. 15 in Chicago, at which time it's likely the matter of expansion will head the agenda. At which time, also, Walter O'Malley will have returned from safari.

The way baseball does things is a joke anyhow. If there was ever any intention of putting any power into the commissioner's office, forget it. He was a puppet stand-by while all this was going on. True, the American League was obligated to tell the National League by Oct. 1 that it intended to expand. It wasn't obligated to tell where and when. If Commissioner William Eckert had any inside knowledge, he did a good job of hiding it from Giles.

The National League has only three places it can go—San Diego, Milwaukee and Dallas-Fort Worth. San Diego is a questionable television market, hemmed in on all sides, and it's uncomfortably close to Anaheim and Los Angeles. Its biggest asset is a beautiful stadium. The Texas market sounds ideal, but has been marked by an amazing lethargy to branch into big league baseball. Milwaukee's bid is reinforced by oodles of money, but the NL owners may be reluctant to admit they made a mistake in the first place by moving out. They may still doubt Milwaukee is a big league city.

Whatever happens, baseball has been revealed as a directionless sport in which petty animosities prevail over common purpose. Just imagine, for an analogy, the American Football League moving into Cincinnati next year without Pete Rozelle knowing about it beforehand—or even allowing it.

THE OLYMPICS takes to the air. In Grenoble, France, parachutist Jean-Louis Vigier holds replica of the Olympic flame (bottom). He took a practice jump (top) while holding the flame. Starting from Paris on Dec. 19, the flame will be carried on a tour of France. It will be delivered to several cities by parachutists.

Plant Will Not Close

NEOSHO, Mo. (AP)—Ole I. Thorsen, manager of the Rocketdyne rocket engine plant here, said Tuesday night there is no intention to close the plant.

Thorsen said he told employees Tuesday that the plant, a subsidiary of North American Aviation, was having difficulty getting work to continue present operations, but "there is no intention to close down the plant."

"We have nothing official as to what might happen," he said.

There have been rumors, he said, that the plant, which employs about 1,000 workers, be closed.

Rocketdyne manufactures H-1 Apollo engines. Thor missile engines, Thor missile engines and overhauls Atlas engines.

Law Will Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday announced that recently retired Vernon Law will be their pitching coach next year.

Image of America Abroad Has Suffered

By JAMES F. KING
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — The image of the efficient American is as bright as ever in European eyes—but the image of the United States is clouded and confused.

The war in Vietnam, a summer of race riots and reports of an alarming crime rate have raised mixed reactions and emotions.

"You people have taken over the world leadership we once had and you're welcome to it, mate," a Cockney cabbie in London tells his American passenger.

A Gaullist Cabinet minister in Paris warns against "the Americanization of French life."

An Italian clerk in Rome says: "I feel sorry for the Americans and we owe them so much."

British officials feel the United States is preoccupied with promoting its own interests, notably in Asia where the chief challenge has arisen.

On the economic front, there is concern that huge U.S. companies will gain control of science-based industries that hold the key to West Europe's future.

Sir Paul Chambers, head of Britain's giant Imperial Chemical Industries and an advocate of British entry into the European Common Market, warned against U.S. domination becoming "a menace to the whole economy of Western Europe."

Britons still look at the United States as the land of opportunity. But there's still plenty of criticism.

One British reporter, after a

One British reporter, after a 6,000-mile trip through the United States, reported that he found "confusion, irritation, bewilderment."

"Attitudes are hardening," he said. "There is less tolerance."

Nevertheless, more than 6,000 scientists, technologists and engineers—along with scores of doctors—left Britain last year for the United States for more money and better chances of promotion.

A government report, while expressing concern about the "brain drain," quoted one aeronautical engineer who emigrated as saying about Englishmen working with him: "Almost without doubt, all would prefer life in England. This is a cultural wilderness."

Ken Mills, 45-year-old aviation expert, emigrated to the United States last year, began making more money than ever before in his life, but still came home again. He told friends: "My younger son could not join us in America without the risk of being called up for Vietnam."

Dr. Joshua Bierer, one of Britain's outstanding psychiatrists, said: "Americans as leaders of the free world have developed symptoms of a guilt complex over their inability to cope with Vietnam and with the color problem and the breakdown of moral discipline at home."

A recent public opinion poll showed 63 per cent of Britons questioned were against taking sides in any major world crisis that brought the threat of war between the United States and Russia.

But while British are looking more to Europe, the Guardian said in a recent editorial: "Our links with the United States must remain."

To Eileen Grant, 19-year-old stenographer, "Americans seem kind of different from us—terribly serious about some things that aren't important to us, like the fuss over the Beatles saying they were more popular than God. As if it really mattered."

American prestige in France is probably lower than it has ever been. The Frenchman seldom carries over his resentment against "America" to the individual "American."

President Charles de Gaulle is waging, with some success, a systematic campaign to undermine the moral credentials of the United States and pledging to keep France independent of "American hegemony."

The Vietnam war has provided De Gaulle his biggest weapon. The overwhelming majority of Frenchmen—remembering their defeat in Indochina when they went it alone—are against the war and automatically refer to "American aggression."

The Frenchman, if he is not a Communist, will usually say at some point in talking with an American: "If you hadn't abandoned us in 1954 you wouldn't have this problem."

But De Gaulle's political opponents sometimes mock his policy of "independence" from the United States. They point to government encouragement of U.S. investment in French industry, which generally has meant more jobs for Frenchmen.

West Germany has taken a more independent political line since Kurt Georg Kiesinger became chancellor last December at the head of a coalition with the Socialists.

Diplomats in Bonn, acknowledging that relations with Washington have changed, emphasize that they have not necessarily deteriorated.

"Before Kiesinger we used to take it for granted that there would be no objections but perhaps the present relationship is healthier," said one.

Criticism of Americans taking over German plants—a hot issue a year or so ago—has died down. This is partly because during the recent business recession any investment was welcomed in capital-short Germany.

Italians have long envied the American way of life—and still do. Now they generally view the United States as a country in trouble.

It is not clear to many of them how the Americans got into Vietnam and why they do not get out. And they read with horror about race riots—a problem they've never had to face.

"I wonder why a Czech, a German or an Italian is integrated into the American society and a Negro isn't," said one shopkeeper.

While forever grateful for Marshall Plan aid that rescued them from ruin after World War II, the Italians are showing increasing economic independence. Italy has been looking for—and finding—markets in Eastern Europe and even in Red China.

In Scandinavia, the American image is still high but takes some battering from the man in the street because of Vietnam and the race riots.

While Sweden's Socialist government of Premier Tage Erlander maintains a neutral position on Vietnam, some of his ministers have condemned the American bombings of the North.

The Labor-owned Stockholm evening tabloid Aftonbladet, Sweden's third largest paper, has waged an anti-American campaign unprecedented in the Swedish press.

Its American correspondent and its editorials paint a picture of the United States as a lawless, violent, corrupt and race-hating society led by warmongers.

In Norway students have staged anti-Vietnam demonstrations. But opinion polls show the majority of Norwegians back U.S. policy and 50 per cent fear Red China would overrun the rest of Asia if the Americans pull out of Vietnam.

Norwegians are more critical about the racial situation in the United States. The liberal Oslo newspaper Dagbladet said editorially: "There can be no democracy in a country in which a large portion of the population is not enjoying their rightful status as equal individuals."

In Denmark, Premier Jens Otto Krag's Socialist government is advocating a negotiated settlement but concedes there can be no unilateral American withdrawal.

A Swiss businessmen summed up the general view in that country: "I don't envy the Americans. Everybody seems to say they are wrong in fighting the war. But if they failed to help South Vietnam that would have been wrong as well. The race riots and the whole complex question are the greatest threat to the American image abroad."

Behind the Iron Curtain where the official line usually portrays America as a decadent imperialist power, there is appreciation of some aspects of the American way of life among the people—mostly the younger ones.

Americans are popular in Poland despite the Communist government's propaganda campaign against the United States. But many Poles are puzzled and disturbed about Vietnam and ask American visitors: "If your position is correct why doesn't America, with all its power, go in and finish the job in one day instead of dragging it out?"

In Yugoslavia, while President Tito's government condemns U.S. policy in Vietnam, the "American style" is popular. Most of the foreign films shown are American; Yugoslav youth dance to American music, and American newspapers and magazines are sold on newsstands.

Most Russians, from the Moscow taxi driver to the Leningrad worker, reveal in conversation that they know almost nothing about the real America.

One of the first questions Russians ask American tourists is: "How much money do you make?" This is followed by: "Do you have a car?" and "Does your wife work?"

Young Russians are devoted to American jazz, however. And even Communist bureaucrats grudgingly concede respect for American technology.

An Escapee Is Arrested

FORT SCOTT, Kan. (AP) — James Franklin Cole, 37, of Paola, Kan., one of three men who escaped last Wednesday night from the Bates County jail in Butler, Mo., was arrested Tuesday night at a Fort Scott restaurant.

Cole, who signed a waiver of extradition, told authorities that after the break, he hitchhiked to Memphis, Tenn., then to Fort Scott. He said he contacted a relative in Iola to arrange to turn himself in.

Bourbon County sheriff's officers were alerted and took Cole into custody at the restaurant.

News Briefs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A group of University of Pennsylvania students opposed to the war in Vietnam say they'll resume sit-ins unless the university bars military recruiters from the campus.

The students said they would "adopt further means to prevent such recruitment" unless the university prohibits the armed services from recruiting on campus by 5 p.m., Friday.

The demand was presented Tuesday to the vice provost for student affairs.

The students also demanded the university ban future visits by representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency and the Dow Chemical Co., which manufactures napalm. CIA representatives are due on campus today through Friday and Dow Chemical representatives on Nov. 8.

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Lt. Col. Kermit W. Andrus passed command of Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron 365 to a high school buddy, Maj. Richard M. Cooke, Tuesday at New River Marine air facility.

Andrus and Cooke have seen their paths cross several times since they became friends 20 years ago at high school in Lakewood, N.Y. and enlisted in the Marine Corps in the early 50s.

Although Andrus gave up his command Tuesday to Cooke, the two men won't be separated. Andrus moves across the air strip to become a staff member with Marine Aircraft Group 26.

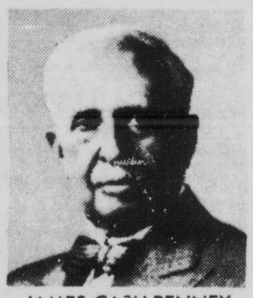

A serious sign in the progression of alcoholism is the need for an "eye-opener" before beginning the day.

Music Has New Charm For the Lonely Traveler

By JIM CROSSLEY

That man on the plane who is carrying a violin case isn't necessarily a THRUSH agent. He could be a professional musician but chances are he isn't that either.

The probability is that he's a salesman or a scientist or an educator, an executive or just anyone. Off on a trip, the first thing he laid out to take along was his instrument.

This is because of a traveling man's idea, a woman's book and a determined violin-viola player's dedication.

These three began to vibrate in the same wave length and the result was the Amateur Chamber Music Players, one of the most unusual hobby groups that exists today.

for the FUN of it

The very simplicity of this organization is amazing in itself. There are no dues, no central office or staff. About every two years a directory is published, listing the names, addresses and phone numbers of those who enjoy playing music for fun. They can make a modest contribution toward the print bill if so inclined. And that's it.

Anywhere they go, members are at liberty to call up and arrange an evening of exercising their hobby in company with others who enjoy it. It means new friends as well as the solace and stimulation of making music.

This opportunity exists all over the world. There were 6,000 listings in the last directory, with over 65 countries other than the United States represented.

Chamber music isn't as stuffy as it might sound to the unitiated. It is simply a term for vocal or instrumental music adapted to performance in a chamber, or small audience hall.

Like barbershop singers or poker players, there have always been small cells of amateurs who pooled their talents in regular or occasional orgies of playing. They needed music as others need food.

Leonard A. Strauss of Indianapolis, who traveled extensively on business and was tired of practicing his violin in a hotel room, wondered why all the little groups couldn't become known to each other, so that visitors might sit in when in town. In 1946, at a meeting in New York, the organization came to life. Catherine Drinker Bowen, who firmly believes that music was created to be played, not listened to, had written a charming book about the hobby, "Friends and Fiddlers." She was present as was Helen Rice, who agreed to become the secretary and still remains the only real, formal link between all those similarly motivated people.

How the movement caught fire is an example of sheer people-power that renews faith.

Members list themselves with a rating: A—excellent; B—good; C—fair; D—etc. Professionals are barred; indeed, there are some playing hack music for a living who balance their sanity by these frequent bouts with more challenging music.

A helpful listing of suggested compositions appears periodically and also there is an amusing annual news letter with narratives about experiences members have had. (In a recent issue there was an announcement of an intra-directory marriage of a "bassoon C and a cello D.")

There's speculation that the future with its compact organization and control of professionals in all fields may bring the blossoming of the amateur involved in demanding pursuits and activities sheerly for fun. Perhaps the Amateur Chamber Music Players is pioneering in something that has a great many applications in other hobbies.

What about, oh, say a directory of fishermen who, at the tinkle of the phone, would be available—even deem it a duty—to drop everything and spend a pleasant day as a guide and companion for another visiting member of the fishing fraternity? Hmmm.

TRAVELER'S CLEARING HOUSE

By Stevie Bonsavage NEA

Travel Trouble? See . . .

DEAR STEVIE: If trouble arises when traveling abroad, where does one turn for assistance?—V. STEIN

Depends on the trouble. If it's a lost toothbrush, no heat; can't get theatre tickets, turn to your hotel's concierge. He's a professional cloud dispenser. If it's a scrambled itinerary, lost tickets, etc., turn to the overseas representative of your transportation carrier or travel agency. But if it's TROUBLE—lost passport, no funds, law infringement, et al—head for an eagle's wing—an American consul's office.

DEAR STEVIE: I have already begun to plan my 1968 summer. I have heard rumors of students who have worked their passage to Europe and back on freighters, merchant vessels or other ocean-going ships. Would you verify this rumor, and if it's possible, how can I make the necessary contacts? —COLLEGE FRESHMAN, Longmeadow, Mass.

Here's what I've learned. Foreign shipping lines usually hire in their own countries. Hiring by American or foreign lines is done through maritime unions. To get a job of any sort aboard a ship you must belong to a maritime union. This entails an initiation fee and yearly dues and you await your turn on a union list of job applicants.

None of the lines I contacted were encouraging. They get many requests from students wanting to work their passage. It harks back to the romantic sailing days when hiring was done on the spot at shipping piers, and the idea persists among adventurous young people.

The correct procedure nowadays, if you want to risk the long shot, is to write the Commandant, Merchant Vessel Personnel, U.S. Coast Guard Headquarters, 1300 E St. N.W., Washington, D.C., for an application for a civilian occupation document for merchant vessels.

Once you're checked out by the Coast Guard and have seaman's papers, you can join a maritime union and start writing individual shipping lines about summer or regular employment. And why not— it beats picking flowers.

DEAR STEVIE: This may seem wild but did you know that the flat side of a big comb makes an easy-to-pack miniature washboard for small articles like gloves and hankies? —GINNY

Wild it is—but it surely works. My glove tips have never been so clean.

DEAR STEVIE: Travelers with their quota of ashtrays, matchbook covers and swizzle stick souvenirs can now collect "sound souvenirs." It's easy with the new three-pound, transistorized tape recorder which can be toted about like a camera on a shoulder strap. The possibilities for its use when traveling are endless, such as a diary in sound of the rush and sizzle of a Yellowstone geyser, the peal of bells across the Piazza San Marco, or the twang of a Kabuki orchestra.—I've really enjoyed mine.—MRS. R. JOHNSON, Springfield, Mass.

DEAR STEVIE: Here's an item for the foreign customs collection: When traveling in Greece do not fold your napkin at the close of a meal. It means you haven't enjoyed the meal and won't return.—D.

Good enough. After rubbing my rabbit's foot and stepping on five cracks, I remembered that in Sweden it's bad luck to enter a row of theater seats with your backside facing those already seated. It's considered rude, so face them as you pass.

Would You Believe the 'Red Pages'?

Fingers Aren't Walking Through China

By ROGER DOUGHTY
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Chinese Communists, who don't especially like anybody very much, have declared war on a new enemy.

While the Reds are on record as to feeling that the Albanians are O.K., that the Russians haven't kept the faith and nobody else ever had it, the latest victim of Peking happens to be the International Yellow Pages, which are designed to let your fingers do the walking all over Africa, Asia, Australia, Oceania, Europe, Latin America, the Caribbean and North America.

The book, which weighs five pounds and sells for $20, lists 2000,000 business and professional firms and individuals in 150 countries throughout the world. With a circulation of about 50,000 copies, the only countries not listed are North Vietnam, North Korea and Red China, which doesn't really bug the Chinese at all.

In fact, they like the idea of not being listed. What bothers Chairman Mao and his chums is that Taiwan, listed under the heading of The Republic of China, rates five pages.

Worse yet, Hong Kong, which has been the target of an especially nasty Chinese campaign of harassment of late, has 14 pages of listings on display, complete with such capitalistic companies as the Chase Manhattan Bank, American Express, General Electric and Corning Glass.

Veteran China watchers, who also answer to the titles of usually reliable and generally informed sources, feel that since the Reds don't want to do much about Hong Kong (it's a British Crown Colony and, after all, the British are the kind of people you like to have living in the neighborhood), the Taiwan listing is a bit tougher to take.

In an official protest to the Reuben H. Donnelley Co., which compiles the International Yellow Pages, the China National Technical Import Corp. of Peking calls the listing of Taiwan as the Republic of China "a serious provocation against the people of our country." This doesn't seem to especially worry the Donnelley people, who feel that their book can play "a large interest in world peace by promoting world trade," even if the Chinese don't think so.

The idea of the book is to provide a valuable tool for firms engaged in international trade or business development and it's a useful international product in that it brings goods and services from faraway places as close as your telephone, unless you happen to be calling from a Peking exchange.

For example, if you happen to be hungry for some Hungarian food, all you have to do is ring up Budapest 163-044 and talk to the friendly food folks at the Harmashatarhegy, one of the best restaurants around.

Or, you can arrange to get some coffee, wholesale, in Brazil by calling San Paulo 359-1305; a spare part for your oil drilling rig by buzzing Kuwait 3521; soap in Syria (14780); or a radiator in Romania (Bucharest 14-94-30).

Rudy Pins, who headed up the research for IYP, now knows a few things about places like Tasmania that he never even wanted to know. Like, for one thing, the Tasmanians list 27 veterinarians but just 26 medical doctors. Draw your own conclusions.

But the Chinese, who have a way of getting even in the long run, may have the last laugh yet. Word out of Peking has it that as soon as the presses cool off from grinding out "The Thoughts of Mao," the next book on the publication schedule will be The International Red Pages. But don't bother to order a copy; all the numbers are unlisted.

One good thing about the IRP, however, is that you just can't miss when it comes to calling people in Albania, North Korea, North Vietnam and China, the only countries that will be listed. No matter how hard you try, you'll never get the wrong party.

Golden West Women Wave Expensive Wigs

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—(NEA)—In the never-never land of Hollywood, where things are never what they seem, wigs are an integral part of the over-all deception.

Today's complete woman of the Golden West has a wardrobe of wigs, falls, wiglets, add-ons and other bits and pieces of hair. She uses them for quick changes, for convenience, for sudden color-switch whims, for disguise and, possibly, for flipping.

The husband-and-wife team of Mel and Jo Rike have been wigging the stars, and the common folk who like to do what the stars do, for many years. They have seen the wig change from being just worn by actresses and women who had physical hair problems to a fashion necessity.

"In the last six years," Mel Rike says, "the thing has really caught on. Today, women want to have well-dressed heads."

It is not uncommon, he says, for a woman to have four or five wigs in her wigwam, plus a few smaller hair pieces. And there are many who own eight or 10, and assorted short subjects.

"I call these wigoholics," he says.

Wigs are not exclusively the province of women, either. Mel Rike says that frequently men will come in to buy full-length female wigs.

"They always say it's for a costume party," he says. "But they always pay cash, never write a check."

"They are very good customers," Jo Rike adds. "They know exactly what they want."

The Rikes' clientele ranges from top stars to average working girls, who save up their $150 or so until they can afford a wig. The price is determined by two factors—the length of the hair and whether the wig is hand- or machine-made.

One wealthy woman came in and wanted a Lady Godiva wig, with a heavy head of 36-inch hair streaming down. Rike said he would have to import hair of that length especially from Italy, and it would cost around $1,000. The woman said go, man, go.

But Rike talked her out of it. He said the wig would be so heavy if she leaned back to laugh it might snap her neck. She compromised on 24-inch hair, which still came in around $750.

The other side of the coin is exemplified by the Rikes' own daughter. When she was 15, she was having troubles with her grades in school. Rike watched her studying at home, and was amazed to find she spent two hours a day between setting her hair at night and fixing it in the morning. He got her a wig and she studied happily ever after.

Today, at 20, she's a confirmed wiggee. She has blond ones for boy friends who prefer blondes, red ones for redhead fans and so on.

This color business keeps Rike on edge. He stocks 37 shades, but fads change. He says red is out lately and he has red hair now that has been hanging around for four years.

While most of his business is fashion, he gets more satisfaction out of helping those unfortunates who need wigs for physical reasons. And especially children who, through sickness or accident, have lost their hair. Recently, he helped a Hawaiian girl whose hair had been caught in a pineapple-picking machine and torn out.

"She was wearing a pathetic, mass-produced wig," he says. "It was wonderful to see her float out of here with a decent hairpiece on."

The women seem to talk to their wigmaker as they have traditionally done to their hairdresser. The Rikes say they've learned a lot from just listening—especially to those married gals who want a wig so they can go incognito to a rendezvous.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

ONE WEALTHY WOMAN, who didn't mind spending $1,000 for a wig, wanted a Lady Godiva special with 36-inch hair streaming down. Since it might have snapped her neck if she leaned back to laugh, the wig designer talked her into trying a 24-inch, $750 job.

Constant Red Target

South Vietnamese Village Rises Again From Ashes

DUC HANH-B, Vietnam (AP) — In the awful terror of that midnight, the plunder, the screams, the fire, the old man sat weeping. He ground his clenched fists into the dirt. Tears washed rivulets down his swollen face as the death grunts of livestock sounded in his ears.

Black-clad strangers thrust him brutally to the ground in front of his straw hut, hurled flaming torches into his home, slaughtered his livestock, burned his rice bags and marched his neighbors off at gunpoint. Women moaned, clutching crying babies to their breasts.

Out of the darkened rice paddies and mud, armed men who called themselves Viet Cong had come to annihilate—for the fifth time—the farm hamlet named Duc Hanh-B.

Sometime in that night, the savage guerrillas left as they had come, toward the no man's land, the marshes that flow into the rump of Cambodia. The old man, Mai Van Coi, did not remember their leaving.

When dawn came, there was only ruin. Charred rubble, broken pots strewn over the burned ground, a partially melted bouquet of pink plastic roses and a few chickens pecking at the ashes.

There were 200 families with no homes, no food, no money.

For the fifth time in three years, Mai Van Coi's hamlet was no more.

Yet out off that defeat there welled new spirit.

Four times before, Duc Hanh-B had risen from the ashes and steeled itself to stay, to rebuild its homes, to replant its rice, to send its children back to school classes. Four times before, these same 200 families had patiently, painstakingly bathered straw from the marshlands for their huts and tacked their faded red and yellow sign "Duc Hanh-B" above the road.

In their fifth effort, the tiny hamlet was to forge a legend.

Duc Hanh-B was rebuilt. Not only rebuilt, but reborn. Strong, sturdy bamboo homes were erected over the ashes. Rice was planted. Crops were harvested. Teachers were found for a new school. A hamlet office was built, a dispensary, a pediatrics hospital. Chickens and hogs were brought by friendly Americans. Tools were loaned by neighboring hamlets. Gardens were planted. People smiled.

Strangers come these days and ask why. How? From where does the inner strength flow, that these families should remain? And why this hamlet and not others nearby? Why again? And Again?

The name Duc Hanh means strong character in Vietnamese. It means strength, courage, one who grasps adversity by the throat boldly, and throttles it. Duc Hanh-B is proud of that name.

"Stay? Where would we go?" asks Mai Van Coi, the old man. "Seven times in five years the VC have come and destroyed my house. Five times they have destroyed our whole town. Not a home was left standing. But they destroy many hamlets, many cities.

"I have nowhere to go. I have no money to go anywhere. In Saigon and big cities you must wear fine clothes and have much money. I have none.

"I used to have many paddies, but the VC have them now. I cannot work them. I made bamboo for houses, but the government came and brought free bamboo to my neighbors. Now they don't want that either. So I do nothing."

The hamlet straddles a dusty, pitted road which runs through Hau Nghia Province 30 miles west of Saigon. Duc Hanh-B isn't on most maps.

To the west 10 miles is Cambodia. To the west half a mile is what the Americans call a free-strike zone, a Viet Cong-controlled territory where any living object that moves day or night is bombed.

Duc Hanh-B is known as a contested area, meaning anti-government guerrillas still live and work—and raid—there. A local militia of 59 men guards the hamlet and in recent months, VC attacks have declined.

But barely a night goes by that somewhere within five or 10 miles of the hamlet, there is no guerrilla activity.

Villagers feel the Viet Cong have come each time to teach a lesson. "They pick on us. They do not kill us. But they destroy all we have. They say, 'You help us or we will destroy you again.' We do not help so much. They come again."

Though property was demolished, most lives have been spared in the hamlet. Those that have been killed are heroes.

There was the rice planter, a woman. She was a poor peasant and no one now remembers her name. They remember vividly the horror of her death.

Vo Thi Moi, a young girl, tells the story:

"She was working in the fields planting rice. The Viet Cong saw her there. They thought she was a government agent and their enemy. When all had left, they surprised her in the fields, and knifed her and hacked her to pieces.

The dead woman's grave is under a banyan tree at the end of the hamlet, the only large tree still standing. People from the hamlet visit there occasionally, and always point it out to visitors.

At night, Mai Van Coi dreams sometimes of those five horrible, plunderous nights and thinks he hears guns and artillery. He isn't sure anymore of much of anything, except that he's afraid when nighttime comes.

But if there's a sixth night at Duc Hanh-B, he's going to be ready.

Testimonial Dinner For Mrs. Richards

A testimonial banquet, honoring Mrs. Christina D. Richards, wife of David F. Richards, 504 West Pettis, was given Oct. 28, at Holiday Inn. Mrs. Richards is past grand worthy matron of the Order of the Eastern Star, and the speaker of the evening was a close friend, Mrs. Esther K. Harris, St. Louis international grand worthy matron.

Mrs. Harris recalled when she first had met Christina Richards. It was at Mrs. Richard's home and she had been a delegate to Harmony Grand Chapter, Mrs. Harris said. There was the little Richard's girl whom she remembered as mother's little helper. Violetta is now married and was at the banquet with her family. And there was the shy little boy who kept peeping from behind the door. He is now in the service.

Stuck in Memory

She recalled, too, the welcoming program at the high school by Professor C. C. Hubbard. Opal Valentine was in an organdy dress and big organdy hat. "It must have been impressive" she said, "or I wouldn't have remembered it all these years."

Through the years, she continued, she and Christina were roommates striving to do a good job helping one another along the way in Eastern Star work.

Mrs. Harris gave tribute to Mrs. Richards as a mother and a grandmother. There are not enough mothers who train their children today she said. When youngsters are caught doing things against the law, she said, they are just released to their parents who failed in the first place in their responsibility and do no better afterwards. The country, she stressed, is swept with rebellion against all the decencies of life.

Training must start in the cradle, she pointed out, and must continue through the years. Christina is a shining example of a woman who has lived a life as God wants, she said. She has reared her children to be fine citizens, she is a good friend, she has given services that have made for progress through her organizations and through community work.

Mrs. Harris was introduced by Jessie V. Washington, GWM.

The meeting opened with the procession of those at the head table after which invocation was given by Rev. Don Frank.

Letter From Mayor

Dr. A. R. Maddox served as master of ceremonies, and a letter of tribute from Mayor Ralph Walker, who was unable to attend, was read by Marie Wright, worthy matron.

John Spencer, Whiteman Air Force Base, then sang "How Great Thou Art," which he dedicated to Mrs. Richards.

Greetings were given by Marie Wright, worthy matron of Queen City Chapter; Kathryn Rayford, past commandress Louretta Court No. 15, Court Cyrene; worshipful master, D. W. Washington, Centennial Lodge No. 59; and worshipful masters Joe E. Long, D. L. White, Lodge No. 44.

Special music was by Marie I. Dowdy.

"A Tribute to Women" was given by Zenabia H. Wilson, past grand worthy matron. She spoke of many women of the Bible who inspired great things and of other women who have deserved recognition for the services rendered. Christina D., she went on to say, has earned the tributes paid to her, for she has served in the church, in civic affairs, not only in Sedalia but in the nation, an untiring worker. Women, she said, are working to fulfill the need and are advancing in many ways.

B. Mills from D. L. White Lodge No. 44, sang to Mrs. Richards, "You'll Never Walk Alone."

Remarks were made by Grand Master John Hughes; GWM Jessie V. Washington, and Past International State Royal Commandress of the United States and Canada, Susie Murphy, who now resides in Sedalia.

Tells of Service

Mrs. Cynthia Callis, president of the Church Women United and director of Women in Community Service, spoke of the service Mrs. Richards has given to the community, stating that since the organization of the Church Women United she has worked to promote the building of a world community church.

Mrs. Callis then called upon Mrs. Abe Rosenthal, who told of Mrs. Richards work in Women in Community Service. "No matter which way we turn," said Mrs. Rosenthal, "you shine."

Grand officers present were introduced by Effie Hughes, PG lecturer.

Mrs. Margaret Maton, president of the Missouri Association of Colored Women, spoke briefly, and there were five past presidents also in the audience.

Special music was by a group from D. L. White Lodge No. 44, who sang a special number.

Presentation of gifts was by Ella D. Virgil and Loavenia Hammons.

The gifts were in a wishing well and included many envelopes with money from everywhere, a money corsage, a horn of plenty filled with artificial fruit and dollar bills, gift wrapped packages, large and small and flowers. Perhaps the flowers nearest her heart were those presented by her granddaughter from her family, most of whom were present, her husband seated beside her at the head table.

Mrs. Richards then gave a response and expressed her appreciation for all of the gifts and tributes to her.

Taught in Schools

A native of Missouri, she attended high school in Sedalia and the George R. Smith College, later attending Pittsburg State Teachers College in Kansas. She served as a teacher in Missouri and Muskogee, Okla., and continues to take courses offered from CMSC, Warrensburg.

She has served in practically every capacity in the Eastern Star, holding district and state offices. She has worked in her church, Taylor Chapel Methodist Church, not only in various offices, but, being a musician, has sponsored cantatas, musicals and concerts, given dinners and teas. She is a past president three times for Josephine Silone Yates Art and Charity Club, past sponsor and organizer of Federated Girls Clubs which has given four Sedalia young women as state presidents of MSACB; past president of Missouri State Association of Colored Women's Clubs, Inc., served two years on the state board of Civil Defense, seven years a chairman of credentials for the National ACWC, Inc.

She is a member of the Northside Civic Organization, a member of the NAACP, has worked in many drives for Cancer, Heart, Muscular Dystrophy and United Fund. Mrs. Richards is a member of VFW Auxiliary, a member of WICS and chairman of World Community Day. Her daughter, Mrs. Robert C. (Violetta) Harris, is a teacher in Kansas City, Kan., and her son Sgt. David F. Richards, Jr. is a paratrooper in Natick, Mass. She has five grandchildren.

The evening did not stop at the rather late hour that the meeting was over. Before some of them left for their homes they were invited to the Richards' home where Mrs. Richards served a smorgasbord dinner.

Telegrams, letters and cards, as well as gifts continue to arrive for Mrs. Richards, who is overwhelmed at all that has been done for her, not only by the people in her city, and state, but even out-of-state.

Chairman of Event

Myrtle Greggs was general chairman, with Ella D. Virgil, co-chairman. Hostesses were Martha Wicks, Marie I. Wright, Jane Robbin, Helen Spencer, Theresa Thompson. Transportation, William Cason; courtesy, Lovenia Hammons, Ella D. Virgil and Mamie McFerrin; housing, Ruby Hones and Tessie Parks; tickets and reservation, Ella D. Virgil, FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE would never recognize her 20th-century sisters in these new culotte uniforms. The very newest look for British nurses, not necessarily including motor bikes, was previewed at the London Nursing Exhibition.

Society AND Clubs

The Houstonia Woman's Club of the M.F.W.C. met Wednesday, Oct. 25, at the Community Church. Mrs. C. F. Wicker gave the devotion, "Faith."

Miss Mary E. Tevebaugh introduced Mrs. Gary Cooper, chairman; Joe W. Long, co-chairman; Cleopatra Gooch and Annie Lee Ray.

The tables were attractive with arrangements of flowers. Members of the decorating committee were: Dorothy Lee, chairman, Louella Browder, co-chairman; Hattie Goodwin, Jewell Quantrall, Beatrice Crawford, Mamie White, Delores Shaw and Lizzie Lee Cob.

Sedalia, state chairman of Girls' Town, a Federated club project, who gave a talk about the home at Mountain Grove.

Guests were members of the Fortnightly Club, Sweet Springs, Nautilus Club, Friendship Club, LaMonte.

The Quiet Day of Prayer was held at the Houstonia Methodist Church Oct. 26 beginning at 10:30 a.m. Members from Dresden, Blackwater Chapel and Bethel Churches attended.

Mrs. Clinton Lowrey, spiritual life secretary of the Houstonia church had charge of the program in the afternoon.

A&P what kind of coffeemaker do you use?

It really doesn't matter.
Any coffeemaker can give you a good cup of coffee, providing you use a fine fresh coffee that is ground exactly right for your coffeemaker.

We've always known that the correct grind is important to coffee flavor.
That's why, years ago, we developed Custom-Grinding.
That's why we don't have just one or two grinds
but seven different grinds... to fit any coffeemaker, including electric percolators, of course,
(Ask for medium-fine grind for electrics).

Custom-Grinding means a little extra work for us and a little extra time for you.
(It takes 15 seconds to grind a pound).
But what a difference in flavor those few seconds make.

You know, there's only one reason we insist on selling custom-ground bean coffees... WE CARE.

Boss and Secretary Don't Communicate

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — After all these years of taking her boss' dictation and typing his letters, the secretary's chief problem with the executive seems to be one of communication.

"They don't achieve understanding of how each can help the other," said Dr. Donald Roark, vice president of a chemical company and dean of the Institute for Certifying Secretaries. "They need a spirit of cooperation."

Roark's institute is attempting to do for secretaries what a similar institute has done for accountants, that is, establish professional goals and standards that must be tested in an examination. So far, 3,901 secretaries have qualified.

If communication were improved, Roark feels, the executive would get a lot more production, the secretary a lot more satisfaction and perhaps higher pay from her job, and the firm and its customers would consequently benefit also.

"Most of us in management don't know how a secetary can be used," Roark said in an interview. Most executives, he indicated, give their secretaries routine tasks based on manual skills such as shorthand and typing.

To do this is to downgrade a secretary's skills to those of simple manual dexterity, Roark believes, which is the same thing as saying an engineer is a man who work with his hands. Secretaries have brains, ambition and various other assets that can be used.

"I believe the secretarial profession is in a period of transition from manual skills to an emphasis on mental skills," Roark said. "A secretary should be the extension of the executive for whom she works."

As such, he said, one of her principal functions is to handle the office in the absence of the executive, to compose some of his letters without being dictated to, to give instructions to employes, to make travel arrangements.

If this is the case, the role of the professional secretary would seem to be approaching that of the executive himself. This produces the distinct possibility that more men will enter secretarial ranks. Eight already have become CPS's.

The CPS examination, which is given each year on the first Friday and Saturday in May by the National Secretaries Association, based in Kansas City, is no snap.

The first section of 125 minutes tests the secretary's personal adjustment and human relations, her ability to deal with typical situations involving superiors, colleagues and subordinates.

Following that comes 60 minutes of business law, 105 minutes of business administration, 2½ hours of accounting and tax problems, more than 2 hours of dictation and transcription and finally 75 minutes of secretarial procedures.

MFA Exchanges Elect Delegates

The annual meeting of the Versailles and Fortuna MFA exchanges was held Oct. 19 in the Women's Civic Club Hall, Versailles. Approximately 190 attended. A turkey dinner was served by the W.P.F.A. women of both exchanges.

William Ballew, general manager of MFA plant foods, was guest speaker.

Elected as MFA delegates were Leslie Lake, Daniel Garber, Warren Lehman, George Bradshaw, Paul Hilty, Herbert Aeschbacher, Norman Fry, Fred Pace, George Allen Porter, E. Baumgartner, Homer Garber and Walter Gerlt.

Serving on committees were Paul Hilty, advertising chairman, Norman Fry and Paul Zelsman, co-chairman of the dinner planning committee.

Canned apricots, heated in a little of their own syrup in a skillet, make an excellent accompaniment to a platter of sliced baked ham. Use a slotted spoon to remove the apricots from the skillet when you are ready to add the fruit to your platter.

Club Notes

The Sedalia Jaycee Wives met Oct. 24 for their monthly meeting at the Coffee Pot Cafe.

Following dinner, Chief Miller of the Sedalia Police Department was introduced and presented the filmed program, "Tragedy on Wheels."

Mrs. Ginger Young, Mrs. Mary Louise Waldrep and Mrs. Mary McKee were pinned as new members by Mrs. Bette Wise, parliamentarian. Letters regarding the upcoming Outstanding Young Women contest were sent out to women's clubs throughout the city and a tea will be held in November to honor the contestants. Mrs. Eva Jane Johnston is chairman. Mrs. Bette Wise, general chairman of "A Night on Broadway" Follies gave a report of the project. Mrs. Eva Jane Johnston was announced as the Outstanding Jaycee Wife of the quarter.

Following the business, an election was held for the positions of president and historian. Mrs. Barbara Loveland was elected president. Mrs. Caralee Johnson resigned as she will be moving to Kansas City. Mrs. Mary McKee was elected historian as Mrs. Anita Busker resigned. Installation of the new president will be in November at the Jaycee's annual Wives' Appreciation Dinner.

The meeting closed with the Jaycee Creed.

Osage Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held a luncheon meeting on Saturday, Oct. 28, at the Old Tavern, Arrow Rock. Luncheon tables were attractively decorated in the autumn theme. Invocation was given by the chaplain, Mrs. William T. Sims.

Miss Lillian Thomson, regent, presided over the meeting. The D.A.R. rituals were repeated by the members and guests led by Miss Jessie Browneller. The national defense report was given by Mrs. H. L. McFarland and the president general's message was given by Mrs. Clyde Heynen. Mrs. Linden Lee Jones reminded the chapter of the clothing contribution to the School of the Ozarks.

Mrs. Maurice F. Clyde, Marshall, Mo., national committee chairman of Missouri of genealogical records, was the guest speaker for the afternoon. She was introduced by Mrs. Herbert Mason, program chairman.

Mrs. Clyde told the chapter genealogy or, "climbing the family tree," is not something that the Daughters of the American Revolution invented, it is as old as scripture. Often people are heard to say they would like to know more about their ancestors but that they are afraid of what they might dig up. This is only natural and perfectly human for one to hope that all of his ancestors were honest, patriotic, courageous, educated, prominent, and respected people in their communities.

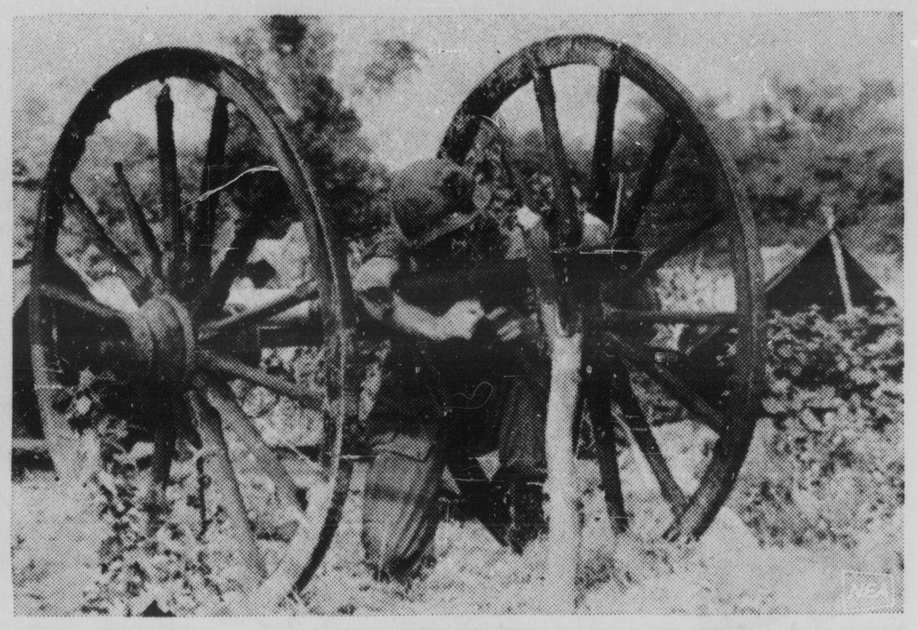

Genealogists, Mrs. Clyde continued, list four good reasons why a person might be interested in climbing the family tree. First, it is an inspiration and a stimulus when research results in finding an ancestor one can be proud of. Second, it makes one more familiar with the history of our country; in fact, genealogical research makes history more meaningful. Knowing that an ancestor was there or even a few miles away from the places where the great events of history took place, makes history "come alive." Third, the pursuit of lineage research is the same all absorbing pleasure and fascination that we get from solving a crossword puzzle or piecing together a jigsaw puzzle. It is a delightfully interesting pastime to climb the family tree limb by limb. Fourth, climbing the family tree helps you understand yourself. It helps you to see better who you are.

Often the question is asked, "How shall I start working out our family genealogy?" the best approach seems to be to pay a visit, first of all, to the oldest living members of your family, or to your oldest relatives. Ask them about the family. Be patient, take notes, and show them that you are interested. Family Bible records, old wills, old church records, give needed valuable information. Old newspaper files are especially helpful for the information they give. In the county courthouses may be found marriage records, orphans' court records, and guardianship, wills, probate records and partition records.

In your search don't forget the cemeteries. A photograph or a tracing of the inscription on a grave stone may be accepted as proof of lineage.

Guests at the meeting were introduced, Mrs. Ernest Jamison, Mrs. Kenneth Weinrich, Mrs. Leon Wells, Mrs. A. B. Wild, Mrs. James Norlin, Mrs. Robert W. Mason, Mrs. Mary Marshall Harris, Joann Finnckle, and Kathy Kempton.

Luncheon arrangements were made by Mrs. C. Foster Scotten, chairman, Miss Lois L. Kendrick, Mrs. Leonard McClure, Mrs. Oscar DeWolf, Mrs. P. Cecil Owen, Mrs. Charles E. Yeater and Mrs. H. L. McFarland.

CIVIL WAR LOOK has a way of cropping up unexpectedly in the Vietnam war. First came the armored gunboats of Vietnam's Mekong Delta, resembling the famous Monitor and Merrimac, and now this 90mm recoilless rifle mounted on a Viet Cong oxcart frame by men of the 27th Infantry harkens back to artillery pieces of yore.

Milk and cream cookery made easy and economical with Milnot . . . recipes for all occasions.

GREEN BEANS ORIENTAL

1 tall (13 oz.) can MILNOT
1 cup (4 ozs.) grated cheddar cheese
1 egg, beaten (optional)
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon instant minced onion (optional)
2 cups drained green beans (#2 can or #303)
1 can (5 ozs.) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
½ cup coarse bread crumbs or chow mein noodles
Paprika for garnish

Add cheese and seasonings to MILNOT and heat until cheese melts. Remove from heat and add beaten egg and water chestnuts. Layer green beans in buttered casserole (1½ to 2 qt.). Pour sauce over beans; sprinkle with crumbs and dust with paprika. Bake at 350°, 25-30 minutes. Serves 6-8.

You'll love cooking with MILNOT. Same rich taste as milk or cream, because it takes almost a quart of milk to make one can of MILNOT! Yet it costs half what you pay for milk.

Sedalia's Cultural Asset

Any community enterprise that can boast 32 years of sustained performance deserves more than resounding claps of hands in appreciation.

A specific acitivity locally in this regard is the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra with Abe Rosenthal, conductor, and Mrs. Geraldine Schrader, assistant.

Monday night another in a long series of creditable performances was presented at Smith-Cotton High School with an entertaining assist from the talented Kansas City Lyric Opera group.

One does not have to comprehend do, re mi, fa sol, la, ti, do, or flats and sharps to enjoy combinations of rhythm, melody and harmony. Those who do understand the technicalities prescribed in hieroglyphics of sheet music may become more enraptured by the sounds of music but this is debatable.

Personally, we love music especially the kind produced by the Sedalia Symphony although our own experience in younger days was not with instruments but with barber shop vocalizing, or to emitting tonal medley by forcing breath out or air in through puckered lips — whistling, that is.

Of particular interest on the program were names of the Symphony's personnel, several of whom have been with the orchestra since its inception. Some have gone which is sad as the passing years remove them from orchestral activity or from the community. But new musicians take their place, either young or mature, which keeps the flavor of the productions fresh and stimulating.

A well-prepared printed program had some revealing information about the status of the Sedalia Symphony. Officers and members of the board are substantial citizens; also recognition is apropos for the esteemed individuals, business and industrial firms which include 10 patrons, 40 sponsors and 106 subscribers.

The combination of all these people in support of and with the orchestra itself has perpetuated a cultural asset of which Sedalia and Central Missouri is proud indeed.

Poverty Is Disgrace

BY CYRENE DEAR

(Last of four related columns)

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Senator Edward W. Brooke (R-Mass.) was certainly the glamour boy at the National Education Association Conference recently held in Washington. In stylish suit and cultured Boston accent with a little southern tone to it, he talked like an educator or a social worker instead of a politician.

"The summer of 1967 is over," said the Senator. "We see at least one-fifth of our nation's citizens in poverty. Poverty in other places in the world is normal, but in America poverty is a disgrace because the United States has the resources to eliminate it. A man without a job, without a decent place to live, without skills, without hope, is a powder keg which the slightest spark can ignite. Burning, looting and sniping are ugly things, but in the mind of the impoverished sometimes, violence alone can give him a shred of dignity when all other avenues to human respect have been destroyed."

In relating poverty to education, Senator Brooke said, "The educational facilities of the nation are poorest precisely where they ought to be the best. The percentage of the gross national product used for education has not risen appreciably in the last fifty years. Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 provides a total of one billion dollars per year, less than half of one month's expenditures in Vietnam.

Most of Senator Brooke's remarks were related to the city slums, but children in poverty stricken rural areas suffer the same educational disadvantages. The answer, according to him, is that it costs money to hire superior teachers, adequate buildings and compensation programs to help students catch up who are already far behind. Senator Brooke believes that federal money must contribute. "The criticism of federal control can be overcome by federal participation with state and local departments of education," he said, "and standards of eligibility for federal funds must be based on the conditions of the school district in which the children live."

The Senator urged N.E.A. members to join the Paperback Revolution. Cheaper books are now available for students. He stressed training in skills and earning a livelihood because many students are not suited for college. "It would be better to teach them how to take a civil service examination or prepare them in what their rights are as a tenant or an employee and technical and computer training are essential today. Racial imbalance in the schools is a problem which demands attention," the Senator said with great emphasis. "Segregation, whether intentional or accidental, damages the already low image of the Negro student, thus intensifying whatever learning difficulties may already exist. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare must move faster in enforcing its desegregation guidelines in the South."

Propose to Tighten Tax Loopholes

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Among his secret papers, President Johnson now has the first draft of a tax-reform message that would call upon Congress to tighten the tax loopholes. It would be too much to ask, presumably, that the loopholes be closed entirely.

Yet even one turn of the tourniquet would slow the tax bleeding and save some of the billions now draining away. This would go far toward paying for the escalation of the Vietnam War.

Despite the pressing national need, however, the President is actually holding up his tax-reform message. He is enough of a political realist to know that it would bring the lobbyists swarming down upon the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee like the Viet Cong out of an ambush.

In the scramble to save their tax privileges, the pressure people could be expected to do more damage than several battalions of Viet Cong. Indeed, the President is afraid he not only would gain no reforms but would lose his tax increase in all the fuss, frenzy and flying feathers.

It is perhaps a measure of our morality that most special interests would be expected to put their pocketbooks ahead of patriotism.

The middle-income taxpayers—in the $10,000 to $20,000 bracket—pay the largest share of their income to the federal government. Even low-income workers pay a greater share of their earnings as taxes than do the high-income taxpayers. Yet LBJ has asked for a 10 per cent tax increase that will compound the burden on the middle and lower brackets.

If this trend isn't soon reversed, a tax rebellion could result that would threaten our whole system of tax collection.

—Tax-Free Millionaires—

The latest available figures, for example, show that 19 millionaires who reported incomes of $1 million or more in 1964 paid no income tax whatsoever. The remaining 463 in the million-dollar bracket paid less than 30 per cent, on the average, though their tax rate was supposed to be 70 per cent.

The most gaping tax loophole, by all measurements, is the 27½ per cent oil depletion allowance. An estimated $2 billion to $3 billion leaks from the U.S. Treasury each year through this tax gap. This much more oil money is lost again through tax deductions for intangible drilling costs and royalties paid to foreign governments. In short, the less privileged taxpayers subsidize oil and gas from the time the first drill bites into the dust.

But the subsidy doesn't end after the oil is pumped out of the ground. The consumers also pay a rigged price for the final product, thanks to the interior department's limits on oil shipments into the country. The difference between what the consumer pays and what the imported oil costs ranges from $1.20 to $1.60 a barrel. Multiplied by some 900 million barrels of imported oil, this amounts to a bonanza of close to $1.5 billion a year for the happy oil importers.

The results of these abundant federal blessings can be seen, first of all in the oil companies' tax returns. The top 22 refiners, with a gross profit of more than $5.1 billion in 1964, paid only 4 per cent of that profit as U. S. income tax. This caterpillared up to 6.9 per cent in 1965 and, breaking all records, finally hit 8.5 per cent in 1966. But most other companies were paying 50 per cent, and most individuals between 20 and 30 per cent of their taxable incomes.

Comments Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., one of the few surviving members of Congress who dares to oppose the powerful oil and gas lobby: "At a time when the war in Vietnam is exerting continuing pressures on our economy and when we are calling upon every citizen to make substantial sacrifices and when the administration is calling for a 10 per cent surtax charge, it seems to me we also ought to look at the loopholes which permit the giant oil companies to escape their fare share of taxes."

—Oil Company Profits—

The Atlantic Oil Company, for example, has cleared a total of $410 million during the past five years but hasn't paid a penny of federal taxes. Marathon Oil, after getting by without paying taxes for four years, finally coughed up 1.8 per cent of its earnings last year. Standard Oil of New Jersey, which has a greater income than most members of the United Nations, paid only 0.6 per cent of its staggering profit to Internal Revenue in 1962. This rose to 1.7 per cent in 1964. Last year, Esso paid 6.3 per cent of its $.18 billion profit as taxes to Uncle Sam.

Of course, the federal tax structure is riddled with more loopholes than a medieval fortress. Corporations, for example, can break themselves into several smaller corporate entities in order to benefit from a lower tax rate.

Most tax loopholes, since they benefit businesses, are defended by corporate-minded Republicans who have been clamoring for spending cuts but have been keeping strangely quiet about tax reforms. The Republican ideas of tax reform, proposed by Rep. John Byrnes, R-Wis., is to eliminate the tax-free status of municipal development bonds. This would do no particular damage to the tax privileges of the great corporations.

Meanwhile, the majority of voters who pay the taxes that the oilmen and other millionaires escape are either unaware or unconcerned. Public interest in the great tax tangle is so low that a legislator simply can't count on the voters to reelect him for championing their cause. So legislators, who might prefer to stand up for the public interest, go on supporting the special interests, which not only pay close attention to what goes on in Congress but find means to reward those who vote for their tax privileges.

Governors Dodge Role Of Driving Force in GOP

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

ST. CROIX, Virgin Islands (NEA)

The myth that the 25 Republican governors can serve as a united force in their party is being buried at sea in this 59th Nation Governors Conference.

A governor's aide who emerged from the last of many GOP caucuses held aboard the cruise ship SS Independence muttered:

"They are more disunited than ever. I predict they will still be this way when they meet again at Palm Beach in December and then next year at Cincinnati."

The myth probably never had more than a thin thread of plausibility. Most of the governors are continuously diverted by their own nagging problems, which have increased mightily since the Republican group formally organized four years ago in Miami Beach.

More than a year later in Denver, stunned as they were by their party's huge defeat in 1964, they persuaded themselves they could become at once a driving and leavening force in a massive reconstruction effort.

Some of this rebuilding has occurred, as the party's impressive 1966 election victories attest. The governors themselves have been among the beneficiaries, since they now number 25 against a mere 16 when they first got together in Florida.

But their contribution to the improvement has been largely individual. As a group they have failed to develop and use power.

At the issue and policy level, the governors' voices are seldom heard in chorus. Their undertaking aboard the Independence was mostly negative, seeing to it that they were not victimized again by another Johnson-sponsored Vietnam resolution such as the governors of both parties have supported again and again since 1965.

The only GOP policy utterances that make any dent at all are those of the so-called Republican Co-ordinating Committee, on which not even a third of the party's governors are represented. They are swamped by congressional leaders and former officeholders like Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Most of the Republican governors being moderates, the myth had it that they would get together in a grand show of unity and endorse for president Michigan's Gov. George Romney or some other.

The real chances of this happening were never more than minimal. And Romney's difficulties as a candidate, which clearly have put many of the governors off, are only a part of the story.

The underlying fact is that the Republican governors lack really forceful leadership. They did not have it in Denver in December, 1964, and they did not gain it by adding eight to their number in 1966.

Tables of organization have not done the job for them. The myth of unified governor power is rooted in the spectacular effort GOP governors made for Gen. Dwight Eisenhower in the 1952 nomination fight. That effort was the consequence of an unprecedented virtuoso performance by the then Gov. Dewey, whose leadership, personal organization and intra-party use of power could not possibly be matched in 1967-68.

Many GOP governors now expect Romney to fail. If he does, it is plain from observing them in this setting that they have not conceived step one in a plan to promote the candidacy of New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller or any other moderate.

And, floundering here in disarray, they face the final irony that one of their number, California's Gov. Ronald Reagan, might get the nomination, not as their choice but as the darling of the party elements they originally got together to oppose.

A part score of 20 is rare indeed. Somehow or other, no one ever gets to play one club or one diamond more than once in a blue moon. It also is easy to bid with that kind of part score. You just ignore it—except to bear in mind that it doesn't help a bit with no-trump but allows you to make game with three of a major or four of a minor.

The 30 part score is a lot more common and leads to some very interesting contracts.

With nothing on score, North would have passed at one no-trump. The 30 points on his side was an attractive inducement to gamble for game and rubber, and he raised to two no-trump.

South wasn't happy with the dummy. Unfortunately the rules of both rubber and duplicate bridge compel you to do the best you can with whatever dummy appears on the table.

South looked around for a way to make eight tricks. He might get one in the club suit, but there did not seem to be time to develop it. He had two sure heart tricks, two sure diamond tricks and two or three potential spade tricks. There were also two potential diamond tricks. Finally South saw a way to count to eight. He needed two spades and four diamonds to add to his two hearts.

There was no reason to hold off the first heart. South won in his hand and led the jack of spades. West covered with the king. There was no reason to play low and give South three spade tricks instead of two.

South was in dummy with the ace of spades. He led a diamond and ducked in his hand. West continued hearts. South won in dummy and started on diamonds again. When the suit broke, he ran off four diamonds and dummy's queen of spades for game and rubber. A lot of good luck was made possible by the 30 part score.

Doves Must Live With Resolution

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — That loud noise in the Senate is from the barn door that slammed when the horse trotted away.

In this case the barn door was the overwhelming approval given the President—in the Tonkin Gulf resolution of 1964—to use whatever force he thought necessary to stop Communist aggression in Southeast Asia. The vote was 88 to 2.

The horse that got loose is the war in Vietnam. Now a horde of senators are unhappy about this dragged-out war which they authorized if President Johnson thought it necessary.

They could have had no doubt in 1964 that the resolution might lead the United States into war. That it could do just that was made clear to them by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., the man who captained the measure through to approval.

He told them it could happen before they voted. But Fulbright, who has been all over the lot on how much power a president should have in foreign affairs, is now for curbing the president.

The Constitution has never given a president a completely free hand in the foreign field. But about the only real restriction it puts on him is this: Any treaty he makes with a foreign power must be approved by two-thirds of the Senate.

Dealing with the Senate this way was often painful. To make life easier for themselves presidents eventually began making executive agreements with other countries. They had the effect of treaties but didn't need a two-thirds Senate vote.

But when it came to using U.S. forces overseas for one reason or another, presidents often got congressional approval. Often they didn't. The armed forces have been used 137 times without a formal declaration of war and in most cases without any say by Congress.

Johnson didn't ask Congress for an okay when he sent troops into the Dominican Republic's revolution in 1965 but he did get congressional approval, through the Tonkin resolution, before using troops in Vietnam.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has proposed his own resolution which he wants it to approve. This one would say a "national commitment" to another country by a president must be approved by Congress as a treaty or in some other declaration.

But, as noted, Johnson asked precisely for such approval before the Vietnam war began. Yet, what is a "national commitment"? Those words are made of rubber. They could be used to apply to almost anything a president might undertake with a foreign power.

As the war began to seem bogged down, Fulbright and others who had approved the Tonkin resolution became uneasy and critical of Johnson. One of the most memorable complaints came from Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J.

Case, who voted for the Tonkin resolution, said Johnson had misused it because he "had taken advantage of the restraint and responsibility of Congress." He called this "highly irresponsible" on Johnson's part.

But from what he said next it wouldn't seem Congress showed much responsibility. Just the contrary. Case said "our consent to so sweeping a grant of power was not only a mistake but a failure of responsibility on the part of Congress."

Whatever resolution the Senate approves, it will be no more than an expression of how the Senate would like the president to act. It doesn't have the effect of law and any president could ignore it.

One way the Senate could really put the screws on Johnson would be to rescind the Tonkin resolution approved three years ago. But even Fulbright isn't suggesting that and, if he did, it would probably get no place.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

James Durley, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Durley, Hughesville, has been selected as treasurer of the Senior Class of Central College, Fayette.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The names of Girard (Zeke) Blair, pianist and composer; Miss Clara Slagle, soprano; and Alice Brown Street, former Sedalians, figure prominently in an operetta, "Miss Romance" written by Mr. Blair and staged in Ivanhoe Temple, Kansas City, as the first attraction of the concert season.

—1927—

A woman became king at the Sedalia Halloween festival, beating the men at their own game. Wearing no mask, but nattily attired in a man's suit, and with a wicked looking black cigar in her mouth, Mrs. J. C. Edwards was acclaimed by the judges as king of the festival. Universal acclaim from a large audience greeted the Judges' choice of a queen, who when she unmasked proved to be Mrs. Milton A. Matthews. The celebration and parade on Ohio avenue was sponsored by the Kiwanis club.

An Aside to LBJ

We shall "ride the tiger," said President Johnson the other night, employing a Southeast Asian expression to underline U.S. determination to see the Vietnam struggle through to a successful conclusion.

Just for the record, the complete saying, at least in its Vietnamese version, is:

"He who rides the tiger will find difficulty getting off."

It's the Law

Question: May a driver who is involved in an accident recover damages for injuries received in the accident, even though at the time he was driving in violation of the state driver licensing statute?

FACTS: Little Johnny Wagaman, who was 14 years of age, was driving a Honda on a public street in his home town when he was run into and knocked from the vehicle at an intersection. Johnny, through his guardian, filed a suit against the operator of the car claiming substantial damages for personal injuries. In his petition Johnny set out that the Honda on which he was riding was a motor vehicle and that he had been injured by reason of the motorist's negligence. In the trial of the case it was conceded that little Johnny was seriously injured but the attorneys for the motorist contended that Johnny was not entitled to recover any damages because he was admittedly an underaged, unauthorized driver of a motor vehicle in violation of law and therefore was guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law. Since Johnny was injured at a time when he was violating the law, can he recover damages?

ANSWER: The answer is "yes." The law is, that generally violation of the driver licensing statute is not a bar to recovery of damages by an unlicensed driver for the reason that his failure to have a license had no actual connection with the accident. The fact that a person is doing an illegal act does not prevent him from suing for injuries caused by the negligence of another person.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

New Surgical Techniques Of Help to Clot Victims

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

When a blood vessel is cut enzymes are released that favor clotting. This is a life-saving mechanism. Sometimes, however, a vein becomes inflamed and clotting occurs within its walls. When such a clot is small it will be absorbed in a couple of weeks but, if it keeps extending, fragments may break off and travel into the arteries.

Since the arteries grow progressively small the farther they are from the heart, these fragments or emboli will finally be forced into an artery that is too small to pass through. They then plug the artery and cut off the blood supply to the area it supplies. In most areas the circulation to the deprived tissues is taken over by collateral blood vessels — a sort of rerouting via a detour. When called on to meet added demands these collaterals enlarge and there is very little disturbance of function.

When the obstruction occurs in an artery in the brain or heart, the result is more serious because of a lack of adequate collaterals.

Persons who have had a stroke or a heart attack due to a clot are often given anticoagulants. These drugs will not dissolve the offending clot. At best they may prevent further clot formation or extension of the existing clot.

Furthermore, they are not an unmixed blessing because they take away the protective clot-forming mechanism so that, if a small hemorrhage starts anywhere in the body, the victim may bleed to death unless prompt corrective measures are applied. For this reason, many doctors have little enthusiasm for the long-term use of anticoagulants.

New techniques for the surgical removal of clots from both arteries and veins are being used and hold much promise as effective ways to deal with this age-old problem.

Husband Tells Of Ordeal

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — "I was in heaven—on my honeymoon, then all hell broke loose with this nut," said Charles Caldwell after 44 hours of terror ended with the shooting of his bride and her rejected suitor's suicide.

Lida Caldwell, 19, was taken at gunpoint from the young couple's apartment a few hours after the wedding Saturday. Robert Batch, 23, a former mental patient she dated until about a month ago, shot and wounded her 18-year-old husband as the couple arrived home from Detroit where they were married.

Batch then took the dark-haired, brown-eyed girl to his third-floor attic apartment in suburban University Heights, holding the bride and police at bay until Monday afternoon.

Batch, quoted by his mother as saying, "There was no reason to go on living," shot Mrs. Caldwell in the chest and turned the gun on himself.

"My darling, My darling," moaned the dying Batch as police stormed into the apartment to find him draped across his young captive.

"Get me out of here," begged Mrs. Caldwell as she was carried to an ambulance.

The bullet pierced her chest and came out her back. After surgery at Doctor's Hospital, she remained in satisfactory condition today.

Batch was pronounced dead at the same hospital from a bullet wound in his heart.

Four miles away in St. Vincent Charity Hospital, her husband, a short order cook, also in satisfactory condition, is recovering from face wounds.

"I hope I can see her soon," Caldwell said from his hospital bed, adding that "this past couple of days has been hell...but now I'm in heaven again."

The dramatic siege at Batch's apartment began when detectives, searching for Mrs. Caldwell, went there Sunday morning.

The officers found Mrs. Caldwell in the kitchen. Standing nearby with a pistol was Batch. He ordered the detectives to leave, saying he would kill her and himself if they didn't.

In the next 27 hours he let police and others enter the apartment at various times. But he wielded his pistol constantly, usually keeping it pointed at the girl's head.

On Monday Batch's mother, Martha Smith, 50, talked to her son from outside the apartment door just before he made his final decision, pleading with him to release Mrs. Caldwell and give himself up. She had flown here from her home in Johnstown, Pa., on an airplane chartered by the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The distraught Batch ignored his mother's pleas as well as those from police and Roman Catholic priests who gathered earlier at the scene. Often he refused to even talk.

What Hath Pascal Wrought?

GRANDMA CALLED PASCAL digs into a hunk of glass. She sculpts.

By DICK KLEINER
NEA West Coast Correspondent

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif.—(NEA)—Hitting glass with a hammer and chisel sounds like a fairly destructive occupation, but a pretty, blonde, 53-year-old grandmother is creating lovely works of sculpture with those tools.

Pascal—she has abandoned her first name and her married name and just uses her maiden name—is the world's only glass sculptor. Some others may work with molten glass, but nobody else, as far as she knows, goes at it with her tools.

There's a good reason for her uniqueness. It isn't easy. In fact, it took Pascal 10 years to figure out a way to do it.

She was a fairly successful painter when, 17 years ago, she visited Crete and saw a 14th-century glass sculpture. She determined to see if she could do something like it.

The main problem was finding the raw material—a type of glass sturdy enough to be sculpted without cracking, smashing, chipping or shattering.

She tried every kind of glass she could get her chisel on. No luck. Often she would be almost finished with a piece when it would shatter. Once she was putting the finishing touches on a shoulder, tapped it one more time—and the foot broke off.

Then she went to Pittsburgh, a glass center. Someone told her about an abandoned glass factory in Dunbar, Pa., where the cullet—the waste glass—was still in the furnaces.

She got hold of some chunks of this cullet, set up a table in a nearby motel and set to work. Eureka—success. The glass let itself be sculpted.

At her Beverly Hills studio, her garage is full of this raw cullet from the same Dunbar factory. They are jagged basketball-sized chunks, all a dark dollar-bill-green in color. As they are made smaller, the green lightens. The finished pieces are pale green, the smallest ones almost translucent.

When she works, she puts on a heavy coat, leather gloves, a plastic, unbreakable mask and her "lucky shoes"—blue sneakers with holes in the toes. She chips away with rawhide or rubber hammer and chisels, then polishes with grinding wheels or dentists' polishers. When she polishes, she wears a mask to guard against silicosis.

She was cut only once. That was when a visitor tipped over a piece and she grabbed for it, but it fell and shattered. She had a cut which required seven stitches. The visitor fainted and she tourniqueted herself.

At first, the art world was reluctant to accept glass sculpture. But a showing in Zurich, Switzerland, opened the doors. Today, Pascal's works are in many museums and are bought by such collectors as Winthrop Rockefeller.

Sputniks Russian Favorite

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union may not send up a manned spaceship for its 50th anniversary, but it keeps launching unmanned Sputniks at a furious pace. Cosmos 189, a new capsule, is whirling in orbit today.

Soviet scientists disclosed that the unmanned spaceship was sent into space Monday while another Sputnik rocketed up to dock automatically with another unmanned vehicle.

Soviet newspapers hailed the docking as a space first and Moscow newspapers proclaimed "Russians ahead again." But Dr. Edward C. Welsh, the White House's principal space adviser, said the United States has long had the capacity for an unmanned docking but did not bother to use it because of Gemini successes with astronauts at the controls.

Cosmos 189 raised to six the number of unmanned Sputniks put into orbit in six days, an unusual flurry of Soviet space activity on the eve of celebrations of the Bolshevik revolution. There had been speculation the Russians would send up a new manned spaceship for the anniversary.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said Cosmos 189 was functionning normally, circling the earth every 95.7 minutes with 332 miles the maximum height of its orbit. No specific mission was announced for the craft, but the Soviets said it was "designed to continue space research."

Cosmos 186 and 188, which joined and then separated on command from computers 3½ hours later, apparently continue to circle the earth, but there was no indication if they would carry out further joint maneuvers. The docking Monday was a test for systems used in building stations in space, the Soviet announcement said.

It also seemed like an obvious preparation for what the Soviet space program wants to do next—form a space platform by joining together manned craft in orbit. But the new unmanned testing suggested a cautious attitude before cosmonauts are risked in space again. Spaceman Vladimir M. Komarov's death last April is believed by some observers to have occurred in connection with an attempted linkup.

Georgi Petrov, director of the Space Exploration Institute of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, called the unmanned link-up "of greater importance than the American experiment in manual docking of the space vehicle Gemini on the body of the carrier rocket."

Believes Hubert Is Out

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Republican Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida, prognosticating from about as far outside Democratic strategy councils as a man can get, says President Johnson's 1968 plans include dumping Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Kirk told a Detroit news conference Johnson will withdraw his support of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, throw the Democratic convention open "and let the Democratic left wing select the dove of their choice" for the vice presidential spot.

The first-year GOP governor also had a surprise prediction as to who would wind up as Johnson's 1968 running mate.

"It is my belief that Johnson's choice will be Gen. James Gavin—a move designed to capture headlines as the campaign begins — a Johnson specialty," said Kirk.

Gavin, a retired lieutenant general, has been a persistent critic of Johnson's Vietnam policies. In resigning earlier this year from the Massachusetts Democratic Advisory Council, Gavin said: "I simply cannot support President Johnson for re-election in 1968."

But Gavin has been mentioned as a dark horse presidential or vice presidential candidate—on the Republican ticket.

As Kirk visited his home state, Michigan Gov. George Romney continued his swing through New England with fresh attacks on the Johnson administration's credibility.

Hitting hard at what has been a favorite theme in recent weeks, Republican Romney told a Boston audience the government has failed "to tell us the truth, either at home or abroad."

"As far as I am concerned," he added, "LBJ has not leveled with us—he hasn't told us the truth."

Before You Write Thrillers, Here Are a Few Authentic Tips

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent

THE QUICK DRAW in a miniskirted shootdown.

LONDON — (NEA) — A girl in a miniskirt should never carry her pearl-handled Biretta in a holster on the inside of her thigh. A handbag with a built-in holster offers much better concealment and is easier to get at.

Similarly, a man should never use the butt of his Colt .45 automatic as a weapon. The muzzle will almost certainly be pointing at his own stomach at the moment the Colt makes contact with someone else's skull.

Again, if he must fire the automatic, the man would do better not to fire it through his jacket pocket. Chances are that the Colt will jam after the first shot, as its slide will catch in the pocket lining and the empty cartridge will only half-eject.

These are only a few of the "dos and don'ts" which the British Crime Writers Association has compiled in the first of a series of background pamphlets for the benefit of its members. The association, which has close ties with the Mystery Writers of America, has been trying to improve the standard of British crime fiction ever since its formation in 1953.

Its 300 members include such pros as Eric Ambler and John Le Carre, but also a good sprinkling of lawyers, doctors, reporters and policemen who write crime thrillers. The association thinks it may even have a cold war spy in its ranks, though it is not sure.

Aim of the background pamphlets is to do away with slipshod crime writing and also to save the writer the embarrassment of making bloopers.

Take such a simple matter as gun holsters, for example. Few crooks ever use them, apparently, unless they are involved in gang warfare which demands a "fast draw."

But for plainclothes dicks, bodyguards and FBI men the holster is an essential part of equipment. Where the crime writer comes a cropper is in positioning the holster. For example, if your FBI agent is wearing a single-breasted jacket and is right-handed, his fastest draw is a shortish .38 revolver from a belt holster just forward of the right hip, butt tilted slightly forward.

What if the agent is wearing a double-breasted suit or carrying a heavier weapon, such as a .45 automatic? This calls for a shoulder holster under the left armpit. Things become really complicated when the agent is left-handed, wears a double-breasted suit but is addicted to a cross draw.

Whodunit writers would do well to steer clear of holsters altogether, for all of them can be detected by a "bump frisk" —a casual collision in a crowded place.

Only the ankle holster strapped to the outside calf escapes detection, but to draw from such a holster you have to be seated, or else tieing your shoelace, and the danger here is narrow trouser cuffs.

If a Russian were to engage in a little political assassination he would probably use a .22 caliber automatic, 18 inches long and with telescopic sights. This has been known to kill a polar bear.

But one of the worst pistols on the market is the Russian Stechkin APS, which fires fully automatic. According to the Crime Writers' Association, this automatic is so inaccurate that it couldn't hit anybody except at a crowded cocktail party, in which case you might do well to invite to the party only those people who you'd like to have assassinated, just in case.

Society AND Clubs

The Helen G. Steele Music Club presented The Fiori Trio Oct. 25 at the Heard Memorial Club House.

The Trio, composed of Margaret Davis Kew, violinist; Sister Mary Irene Nowell, O.S.B., cellist, and Sister Joachim Holthaus, O.S.B., pianist, are members of the faculty of Mount Saint Scholastica College, Atchison, Kan.

They presented a most talented and varied program of music. Selections included "Trio in B, Op. 99," by Schubert; "Trio No. 2," by Ross Lee Finney; "Ave Maria," by Bach-Gounod; "The Swan," by Saint-Saens, and "Trio in D. Minor, Op. 49," by Mendelssohn.

A special number "Concerto, Op. 48," by Kabalevsky, was presented by Margaret Davis Kew, violinist. Orchestra parts were played by Sister Joachim, pianist.

Mrs. G. H. Routszong, president, welcomed the large audience of members and guests. The following were introduced: Mrs. Pinkney Miller, Abe Rosenthal, Mrs. Donald Callis, Mrs. Bruce Whittier, Ira Bronson, Mrs. Gertrude Fingland, Judy Fingland, Mrs. Carl Speiser, Mrs. Karigan, Mrs. Hotsenpiller, Mrs. M. O. Green, Sr., Miss Charlotte Gabbet, Mrs. Ben Boone, Sister Rosita, Sister Paula Mary, Mrs. Walter Dobel, Mrs. L. Machartz, and Mrs. Emmet Slezak. Chairman for the afternoon's program was Mrs. C. W. Mathieson.

Mrs. Robert Seelen, club program chairman, announced the next program would be an exchange program with Jefferson City. Mrs. Shirley Johnston, lyric soprano, with Mrs. Russell Bryant, accompanist, will be featured. Mrs. L. H. Hodges will be the chairman for the day.

Mrs. W. E. Finch was hostess to the October meeting of the Otterville Garden Club at her home in Sedalia.

Mrs. Leo J. Smith served a dessert course to 14 members and two guests, Mrs. Herbert Howard and Mrs. Leslie Berry.

Mrs. William C. Dunham and Mrs. Lewis Smith reported on the district meeting at Marshall Oct. 17. Mrs. John Dunham gave the program, "Autumn Perennials-Rebuilding by Transplanting."

In the artistic arrangement of "Witches Delight" Mrs. William C. Dunham won a blue, Mrs. Frances Johnson, red, Mrs. Lester Nace, white. Ribbons for specimen plants were given as follows: Mrs. William C. Dunham, one blue; Mrs. Frances Johnson, one blue and one red; Mrs. O. W. Howard, one blue, one red and one white; Mrs. Aubrey Bixler, one blue and one red; Mrs. Leo Smith, one red.

TRAVELER'S CLEARING HOUSE

By Stevie Bonsavage

NEA

Magic That Is Mexico

DEAR READERS: If you plan to attend the Olympic Games in Mexico City next October, it's not too early to commission your travel agent. Choice accommodations go fast. A good idea is to rent a small house right in Mexico City and now is the time to bargain for best rates.

Mexico's rainy season is about over, her "in" tourist season is beginning (late October to April) and many folks will drive south this year to avoid next season's crowds, or to reconnoiter. Some road tips from our '64 encounter with Mexico's magic seem timely:

Make certain your car is in top condition for stretches of rugged mountainous travel. New tires are essential. Some roads are pitted and of sandpaper texture which is wearing on you and your tires.

Drive by day only—night driving is extremely hazardous. Roads are often narrow, winding and not as clearly or as frequently marked as in the United States. Study their road signs and highway markers before crossing the border (get from AAA). Watch out for pedestrians and livestock which loom out of nowhere.

Don't budge without fog lights, a well-stocked tool box, extra fuses, condenser and fan belt. Gas up at every opportunity and carry a safe five-gallon can of reserve gas for secondary roads. Stations are not as frequent as we're accustomed to having them. Mexican government road patrols in green trucks give emergency assistance without charge, except for parts, along major highways. Carry water for radiator.

If driving a travel trailer, confine yourself to main roads. Butane gas can usually be found in larger towns along main routes.

Keep your car locked and don't leave it unattended. Some Mexican boys make it their business to watch tourist cars for small change. Field glasses will help spot road signs far enough ahead for easy interpretation. Be alert for washboard road sections designed to slow traffic near congested areas. They work. Vacuum bottle and purification tablets are wise for outlying areas.

Shop in village open markets instead of tourist centers for souvenir bargains. They expect you to bargain, so have a ball. Stock up on "espadrilles," made of cloth with rope bottom, for your traveling friends. They're the most comfortable sightseeing shoe I've found, usually cost less than $1. Shop for grocery supplies at the newer super mercado stores (similar to our supermarkets.)

Don't be baffled by $ signs everywhere. They mean pesos not U.S. dollars. One peso is equal to about 8 cents in our money. Count your change and watch for the 5-for-50 peso switch when you're not looking. Our Mexican neighbors are no more or less dishonest than we, but fuzzy-minded tourists tempt one-upmanship anywhere.

Good news! Smallpox vaccinations are no longer required to re-enter the United States from Mexico.

Mexico's ancient and magnificent cities, her palm-fringed seashores, her tropical villages set at the foot of snow-crested volcanoes, her warm, joyful people soon clear heads and lift hearts. What could be annoyances by hometown standards are mere specks while in this many-splendored land.—STEVIE
